

Bugs Halt Breath Balloon

By JACK PRY
Legislative Reporter

British Columbia will not be able to introduce its roadside drinking tests until early in 1967, Attorney-General Bonner said Thursday.

The government planned to introduce its program in Greater Victoria next week, in time for the Christmas holiday period.

But Mr. Bonner said he was disappointed with the results of tests conducted with a portable balloon device at the RCMP laboratory in Regina. Manufacturers in the United States will be asked if they can improve the device to the point where it will register a simple "yes" or "no" reading to indicate whether the blood alcohol content is above .08 per cent.

Motor Vehicle Superintendent Ray Hadfield said Thursday the RCMP lab tests were "a little shocking, because we had been given to understand the accuracy was there."

When the system is perfected and put into operation, the government will proclaim legislation passed during the last session, which will allow policemen to suspend licences of borderline drivers for 24 hours.

A driver stopped and challenged by a policeman would have the right to refuse the roadside test and take a voluntary breathalyzer test to prove his blood alcohol content is below the .08 per cent level.

The roadside device itself consists of a balloon and a vial of crystals which change color when alcohol is present. The policeman must judge the color change.

The machine now in use by police is much more precisely made, operates in a controlled environment and uses a photo-electric cell to compare the colors of the crystals, Mr. Hadfield said.

Pride of Navy 'Pile of Junk'

OTTAWA (CP) — The pride of the navy — the aircraft carrier Bonaventure — was described as "a pile of junk" in the Commons Thursday.

Robert Pritt (NDP-Burnaby-Richmond) worked in the jibe in a question to Revenue Minister Benson. Mr. Benson had just said Canada couldn't afford a 40-per-cent pay increase for air traffic controllers.

"Can the Canadian people afford to pay out $11,000,000 on that pile of junk the Bonaventure?"

The question went unanswered.

The Bonaventure is currently undergoing an extensive overhaul and the defence department has had to increase its estimate of how much the work will cost. The figure now runs into millions of dollars.

Air Talks Showing Continued Progress

OTTAWA (CP) — Revenue Minister Benson reported continuing progress Thursday in talks aimed at settling a threatened air traffic controllers' strike without recourse to government intervention.

Mr. Benson, president of the treasury board, the cabinet committee dealing with the controllers, declined to give details but said talks would continue.

Government legislation to block the scheduled Tuesday strike already has been prepared and is to be introduced today.

A spokesman for the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers, vice-president Jim Conway of Winnipeg, promised earlier that there would be no attempt to defy the legislation. But the association will stick to its wage demands until the legislation is passed.

The government's strike-halting legislation would provide for pay increases for the controllers, but the amount has not been specified. Their salaries now range from $4,800 to $9,528.

'Cover-Up' Charged To Witness

VANCOUVER (CP) — The head of the royal commission inquiry into the bugging of a union convention here last month accused a union witness of "covering up" in his testimony to the commission Thursday.

Commissioner R. A. Sargent said he was unimpressed with the evidence of Murray Johnston of Nanaimo, one of four officials of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada called to give his recollection of conversations at the union's convention.

A private investigator testified earlier that he placed electronic listening devices in the union's hotel convention rooms. He said he was hired by Pat O'Neal, regional organizer for the rival International Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

Bonn Shuns A-Bomb

Pledge Breaks Jam

PARIS (CP) — West Germany's pledge that it will neither seek nor desire the manufacture or control of the atom bomb on a national basis is considered by Canada to have broken the main log-jam barring completion of an East-West pact to ban the spread of nuclear weapons.

Willy Brandt, West Germany's new foreign minister, made the pledge before the 15-country NATO council Thursday. Later External Affairs Minister Paul Martin told a press conference he would be "very disappointed" if the pact is not completed when the 17-country United Nations conference in Geneva is reconvened in February.

Informants described Martin as feeling Brandt's statement was impressive and sincere, leading to the conviction that there should be no longer any fundamental obstacle to the conclusion of an agreement.

Soviet authorities had told Martin during his recent tour they would not be prepared to sign the agreement if they felt proliferation would develop in another form—a reference to Soviet fears that Germany aspires to become an atomic power.

Martin also was said to be impressed with the statement by French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, that France will adhere to the political side of NATO even after the review period of 1969. However, Couve made clear he did not believe there could be a united NATO political policy, a suggestion indicating there still will be many difficulties between NATO and the maverick member which has withdrawn from integrated military co-operation.

Prudential Losses Top $17,000,000

By KEN SMITH

Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP)—In a stormy session that brought frequent curses and even a cry for a lynching, creditors of Prudential Finance Corp. Ltd. had their first meeting Thursday and learned that their position snaps up as even worse than had been expected.

J. L. Biddell, president of Clarkson Co. Ltd., trustee for the company placed in bankruptcy Dec. 5, told creditors that losses now known stand at $17,000,000 — and more will come.

Warning that it will take many more weeks to sort out details, Mr. Biddell said losses will run between $19,000,000 and $20,000,000. When Prudential Finance was first reported in trouble a month ago, it showed a book value of $25,000,000.

The meeting, attended by about 800 of the 8,500 noteholders in Canada, heard expressions like "bloodsuckers," "good — for — nothing gangsters," "corrupters" and "four-flushers."

When one speaker—who identified himself only as a Mr. Davis — called for a lynching, many applauded.

There were repeated demands that the federal or provincial governments—or both—bail out the creditors.

Resolutions were passed calling for the presence at the next creditors' meeting of Premier John Roberts and Attorney-General Arthur Wishart of Ontario and C. C. Carrothers, London, Ont., lawyer who was a Prudential Finance director and is a partner in the law firm to which Mr. Roberts belonged.

When a debate started on appointing trustees for the bankrupt company, a woman at the back of the orchestra seats in the Royal Alexandra Theatre where the meeting was held yelled:

"What the hell good are trustees?"

Another woman who asked whether lawyers are honest and answered herself with a

World's Best Friend Walt Disney Dead

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Walt Disney, the greatest showman since P. T. Barnum, died Thursday of acute circulatory failure. The 65-year-old entrepreneur left as his legacy to the world Disneyland, fabulous cartoon characters such as Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck, and universally acclaimed motion pictures. (See Pages 19 and 25.)

He died at mid-morning in St. Joseph Hospital in nearby Burbank, where his left lung was removed last Nov. 21 after doctors discovered a tumor which had caused abscesses. It was not disclosed whether the tumor was malignant. A cardiologist was at Disney's bedside when he succumbed.

The hospital in which Disney passed away is located across the street from the movie studio he founded.

Disney's death shocked the world. Before noon, messages of condolence poured into Hollywood from around the globe. Los Angeles County supervisors immediately ordered all flags on county buildings lowered to half-staff in tribute to him. Flags also were lowered

Docks Inquiry Trio Named

OTTAWA (CP) — The promised federal inquiry into the West Coast ports tie-up will be conducted by Mr. Justice C. Rhodes Smith of the Manitoba Appeals Court, Labor Minister Nicholson announced Thursday.

The dispute centred on demands by foremen to form their own collective bargaining unit. The ports were tied up three weeks.

Mr. Justice Smith will be assisted by H. J. C. Terry, Vancouver, former president of Northland Navigation Co. and Joseph Morris, former IWA western district president and now executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress in Ottawa.

Mr. Nicholson also said the cabinet has issued a directive to guarantee all stevedores eight statutory holidays a year. Many stevedores miss out on the holidays and two weeks' vacations because they work for several employers, none of whom was legally responsible.

FAMILIES READY TO FLEE

By MARIE CADORETTE

DUNCAN — A small dam burst and spilled the raging Cowichan River through residential area of Cowichan Indian Reserve Thursday night.

At midnight 30 members of three families were standing by to evacuate their homes in the Mission Road area.

The water was at the doorstep of each house, the residents, from aging grandmothers to babies, were prepared to move if floods invaded the homes.

"I think we will have to get out," said Abraham Joe, public works chairman of the Indian band.

WRONG WAY

Ever since the dam was built, and he was one of the crew that built it, Mr. Joe has maintained the structure was constructed in the wrong way, and it would burst before high water.

As his prediction came true Thursday night, Mr. Joe could take little pleasure in the vindication of his argument — he was preparing to move his own family from one of the three houses.

In all, 74 persons are directly in the path of rising waters, and may have to evacuate.

TRUCKS STAND BY

All night the Cowichan band truck and trucks provided by the Civil Defence stood by.

Also waiting to help were 24 teen-age volunteers from Teen Town, ready to help with the moving.

Evacuated families will have temporary shelter in the old agricultural hall, where stoves and other provisions are installed.

WASTE OF MONEY

One evacuated family is now in the armories.

"I knew damn well that dike would go," Mr. Joe said. "It was a waste of the government's money."

He was working on the dam Thursday when he saw a tree had sunk into the dam. At 4:30 p.m. he took another look, and "I knew it was going."

He went home to alert his family and other residents. At 6:30 he was back at the

Hypnotist-Doctor Innocent

FREEHOLD, N.J. (UPI) — Dr. Carl A. Coppolino was found innocent Thursday of strangling his former friend and neighbor, retired army Lt. Col. William E. Farber, and was reunited in the courtroom in tearful embrace with his wife and mother.

When the verdict was delivered to the hushed courtroom, Coppolino, who has a long history of heart illness, slumped in his chair. Court officials rushed to give him a nitroglycerine pill, and he quickly recovered.

SECOND TRIAL

Though acquitted in one of the most sensational murder trials in recent years, Coppolino faced a second trial in Sarasota, Fla., for the alleged murder of his first wife 15 months ago.

A Monmouth County sheriff said Coppolino would be flown to Sarasota sometime today, and Florida officials said they should be ready for a February trial.

WONDERFUL

Coppolino's wife Mary, beaming with the first hint of a smile in her bid to be reunited with her husband, exclaimed:

"I think this is a great big, beautiful world! I knew it all along. I only wish the Florida court would let him out without all the 'shenanigans'."

The jury of 10 men and two women deliberated less than five hours before clearing Coppolino, who could have gone to the electric chair if convicted of first degree murder.

SECOND SENSATION

For Coppolino's 33-year-old attorney, F. Lee Bailey, the victory was the second sensational acquittal he has effected within one month. In November, he won freedom for Dr. Samuel Sheppard in Cleveland, who had served 12 years for the murder of his wife before the U.S. Supreme Court overturned his conviction last July.

Asked what the decisive factor in the acquittal was Bailey said:

"The ridiculous testimony of Marjorie Farber."

'D ARREST HER'

"If I were a law enforcement officer, I'd arrest her immediately ... for perjury in a capital punishment case."

'Whitewash'

Evidence Not Proved

CLEVELAND (UPI) — In a sharp attack on Dr. Samuel Sheppard's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, a grand jury Thursday said it found "not one iota of evidence" to support his charges Marilyn Sheppard was murdered by the jealous wife of an alleged lover.

Bailey, whose charges led to an investigation of the 12-year-old case by the Cuyahoga County grand jury earlier this month, said at Freehold N.J., where he was defending Dr. Carl A. Coppolino against a murder charge:

'DAMN WHITEWASH'

"It's a ridiculous, damn whitewash and exactly what I expected, Cleveland is protecting itself for 12 years of sin."

Sheppard was in Chicago and unavailable for comment.

Bailey made the allegations after he successfully defended Sheppard last month at his trial in the murder of his first wife July 4, 1954. Sheppard, who served nearly nine years in prison after being convicted at a 1954 trial, was acquitted at the second trial.

NO FOUNDATION

The grand jury, in a final report signed by its foreman, William R. Pringle, said Bailey's allegations that Marilyn Sheppard had a lover and that the lover's wife killed her were "absolutely unfounded in fact."

Bailey said this finding by the grand jury was a "damn lie."

"From all evidence before us," the grand jury report said, "the character, fidelity and reputation of Marilyn Sheppard was of the highest."

COUPLE NAMED

Bailey, in a letter to Bay Village police chief Fred Drenkhan, had named the couple he accused, but the names were never made public and were not included in the grand jury report.

The report said the couple was "absolutely innocent."

Summing up, the report said there was "absolutely no evidence" warranting the indictment of any person.

The report noted that testimony given by Bailey and Sheppard before the grand jury Dec. 2 and Dec. 5 was in conflict and "Sheppard contradicted his lawyer on several important points."

It did not give the conflicting testimony.

Coppolino

Second wife, lawyer Bailey

Coppolino's appearing on the witness stand, a change in tactics from the Sheppard trial, was not a "big chance" on his part, Bailey said.

"It was not a very great chance," he said. "He was a good witness who could afford to tell the truth."

'WE'RE READY'

Asked about the Florida trial, he snapped:

"If they're ready, we're ready."

Bailey has had a meteoric rise and unbroken string of murder acquittals since he started his career as a trial lawyer six years ago in Boston.

Coppolino, a 34-year-old author, anaesthesiologist and hypnotist, had been accused of slaying Farber, 52, on July 30, 1963.

The verdict meant the jury refused to believe the bizarre, dramatic testimony of the state's star witness, Farber's blue-eyed, 52-year-old wife Marjorie.

IN DOORWAY

Mrs. Farber testified she stood, transfixed, in the doorway of the bedroom of the Farber home while Coppolino pressed a pillow with the heels of his hands over Farber's head until he died.

She told the court she had been hypnotized into a love slave by Coppolino for two years, and did his bidding in a "walking trance." Mrs. Farber said Coppolino had ordered her to knock out her husband with a towel-covered baseball bat, then administer a lethal drug to kill him.

SHIED AWAY

She testified she started to inject the drug but shied away in horror at her actions. Then, she said, Coppolino and Farber argued heatedly, and, as she returned to the bedroom and stood riveted in the doorway, Coppolino strangled her husband.

The defence had contended that Coppolino not only did not kill Farber, but actually ministered to his friend and neighbor in the throes of a heart attack.

Bailey placed two doctors on the stand to testify Farber succumbed to a heart seizure, countering prosecution testimony from New York City medical examiner Milton Helpern, that Farber had been strangled.

The jury foreman, Ukrainian-born George Phillips, intoned the verdict in a slight Russian accent:

"We, the jury, find Carl Coppolino not guilty."

"Ohhh!" spectators exclaimed, but Superior Court Judge Elvin R. Simmill raised his hand and ordered that there be no demonstrations.

After Coppolino recovered from his initial shock, he met his wife and his mother, Anna, who had been a witness in his behalf.

COOL WITNESS

"My prayers have been answered," she whispered into her son's ear, embracing him tearfully.

Coppolino, who had been a cool and reserved witness in his own behalf, stood dabbing his heavy eyes with a white handkerchief that had been in the lapel pocket of his gray suit. Sheriff's officials led him outside the four-story, black-painted Monmouth County courthouse, back to jail. Coppolino waved to scores of onlookers as he entered the prison van.

Judge Simmill had denied a motion by Bailey that Coppolino be released on bond.

IT'S MANDATORY

He did give Bailey permission to bring an order for the court to show cause why a writ of habeas corpus should not be issued here, for Coppolino's release. The doctor previously had been permitted to post $15,000 bond on the murder charges in Florida.

Land Dealings

THE INQUIRY by Mr. James Baird, the assistant deputy minister of municipal affairs, into real estate dealings by members of the Saanich assessment department, and his recommendations arising from it, open up much larger questions of conflict of interests and use of special knowledge, gained in official duties, for private gain. If as Reeve Hugh Curtis says this is a "grey area" in municipal administration as it relates to property transactions by employees, so it is through the whole field of real estate activity by officialdom, elected as well as appointed, and not in the municipalities alone.

In the Saanich instance no breach of the law was found; Mr. Baird thought it imperative, however, that employees be not only innocent of wrongdoing but beyond suspicion. And we do not have reason to imply that here or anywhere else in the province officials are or have been wrongfully using knowledge not available to the public for their own financial benefit. But opportunities certainly are open to the unscrupulous.

Mr. Baird has suggested that municipal employees should be required by bylaw not to have real estate dealings in their own municipalities except for their homes, and obliged also to disclose any purchases to council. He also recommends that councils should set conditions under which employees may or may not acquire tax-sale or municipal property.

But if such laws are needed to govern property investment by these employees of the people, is it not equally important that members of councils themselves, and of advisory boards, be under similar rule? And civil servants? And even, perhaps, members of government?

Even if they were, of course, the dishonest could still get around the law with some safety by means of dealing through outside companies. And making property ownership apart from a home a barrier to public office or employment would be an absurdity.

Municipal elected representatives take an oath that they will not allow any private interest to influence their conduct in public matters. Officers—generally, the department heads—swear that they have not received and will not receive any payment or reward, or promise of such, for the exercise of any partiality or malversation, or other undue execution of office. Both these classes and all permanent employees take an oath of allegiance to the Queen.

Perhaps, rather than singling out municipal employees for a prohibition of one type of investment in their own municipalities, the same object could be achieved throughout the public service by requiring all to swear that they will neither allow private interest to influence their conduct in public matters nor use for their own gain knowledge obtained from their office or employment which is not equally available to the people they serve.

This would clearly spell out the trust that could not be violated with impunity, and would probably be as effective in practice as restrictive bylaws, and with wider scope.

Years of Service

WITH THE NEW cabinet changes Mr. Eric Martin, former minister of health and hospital insurance, says he will disappear into oblivion. Not exactly that, for his imprint on the Sacred regime since it first took office in 1952 has been strong and will leave lasting impact.

The regret will be genuine that it is the state of his own health that has so depreciated as to necessitate his retirement from the political arena.

Mr. Martin is one of the originals of the Social Credit movement in B.C., and has been one of the weightiest members of the Bennett government. The premier credits Mr. Martin with bringing him, Mr. Bennett, into the development which brought about a Sacred government and himself into the leadership of the party.

A controversial figure who seemed frequently to be embroiled in disputes regarding his department, Mr. Martin nevertheless bore a heavy burden in an area of government beset with never-ending problems. The health portfolio is not an easy one, and its complexities increased when hospital insurance was added to its responsibilities. The pressing need for hospital accommodation alone makes this one of the most important obligations resting on the Bennett regime.

Mr. Martin must be credited with a fine sense of public service all through the 14 years he has been a member of the government, which he has served well and faithfully and undoubtedly with the welfare of B.C. at heart. Mr. Bennett has just cause to regret his departure, and general good wishes will follow the former health minister as he seeks to regain his own health after a long period of office which probably contributed to his impairment.

Cautious Prophets

PASSENGER-CARRYING helicopter service on "a regular or scheduled basis" would not be profitable in any part of Canada at this time, according to a department of transport appreciation of the situation.

The transportation policy and research branch of the federal department has made a study of the possibilities of helicopter services and has come up with a report that "on a self-sustaining basis" they are "not yet feasible."

However, introduction of a helicopter flight schedule should be reconsidered in another five years in areas of major traffic potential, it is suggested. The Vancouver-Victoria area is one of them.

Victoria, with perhaps unusual foresight, has equipped itself with a heliport site in anticipation of a service which will be encouraged by increasing highway congestion, among other things. We should not be critical of over-hasty preparation for a development that is bound to come. For one thing we have probably saved a substantial sum by anticipating the need. For another, the transport department could conceivably be rather less than optimistic in its prediction.

Inter-city centre-to-centre helicopter services could be very much nearer than its cautious examination of prospects indicates. The public is generally prepared to pay, even liberally, for convenience.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships,

By TOM TAYLOR

RHODESIA is very much in the news these days and it is mentioned in speech is referred to as "Rhodesia". A reader writes to quote a Boy's Own Annual of 1902 which says this is an incorrect pronunciation.

It points out that the name was coined after Cecil Rhodes (the diamond magnate and Cape Colony premier who founded the Rhodes scholar-ship), whose name is sounded "Roads", and hopes that BOA readers will cite this area of Southern Africa as "Roads".

A former hope, I imagine Rhodesia, in 1902 administered by a chartered company, became a self-governing British colony in 1923, and seems always to have answered to "Rhodesia".

A senior colleague of mine who lived and worked there for years affirms that he never heard it called anything other than this, the name by which it is generally known.

I am afraid it must be the Boy's Own Annual of 1902 that was incorrect.

Apocryphal item herein on Wednesday about the "spirits of the dead" keeping Nelson's flag, the Victory, free of the attention of birds and their droppings, a correspondent pens a whimsical rebuttal, to wit:

"Perhaps Tom does not realize that seagulls are the reincarnation of pensioners. Chief Stokers and, as such, are contemptuous of the efforts of sailors to keep the upper deck clean."

"It is a well-known fact that where seagulls perch, if they find a place to their liking, they leave the unmistakable seal of their approval. I have written to the Captain of Her Majesty's Dockyard at Portsmouth to ask if he will look for evidence of such seals."

"I am sure that Vice-Admiral Lord Nelson exercised no such power over the seagulls in his lifetime, and I doubt if he is able to exercise restraint over such a powerful body as that of the Brotherhood of Departed Chief Stokers from his Celestial Quarters today."

I doubt it too, especially when recalling the admiral's column in Trafalgar Square.

This is an age of noise. What with motor vehicles, loud speakers, transistors, etc., one must train one's ears to selective acoustics.

An Oak Bay reader thinks of this when he says that the new government museum complex is a poor location for the proposed Netherlands Carillon. The bells will be drowned by the traffic noises on Government, Belleville and Douglas Streets.

He elicits the carillon installed by a government at Niagara Falls as an example, of which a former carillonist there said: "I do my best but nobody can compete with the Falls and the bridge traffic below us."

He suggests that the quietness of nearby Beacon Hill Park would be a much more suitable location, where a relatively inexpensive tower could be constructed to house the bells and park traffic easily halted when a recital was being played.

Perhaps, however, the Dutch people who are donating the carillon as a centennial gift, intend that it should form a structural part of the centennial museum project itself.

For President Johnson

Sanctions Dilemma

By ANTHONY HOWARD from Washington

THE British government's request to the Security Council for the imposition of mandatory sanctions against Rhodesia confronts President Johnson with a serious domestic political dilemma. Under the UN Participation Act passed by Congress in 1945, the president is required to report to both the House and the Senate any action taken under Chapter VII of the UN Charter.

But that by itself will not throw the whole force of American law behind any formal embargo on U.S. imports from Rhodesia. So far imports from Rhodesia, in contrast to America's own exports (banned under executive order), have been purely a matter of a voluntary boycott, a boycott which inevitably has been subject to bad breaches, particularly in the area of raw materials like chrome ore.

If the president now wishes to tighten the sanctions against Rhodesia, he must show African nations that his support for their cause is not just token but practical as well — he has no alternative but to ask Congress for legislation making any form of trade with Rhodesia an illegal activity. The machinery of presidential executive order is not applicable to imports as opposed to exports.

For any U.S. president this would be an extreme step, and for one who once described the countries of Africa as "suburbs" it is also probably an unlikely one. Nevertheless there are clearly elements within the administration who would be in favor of it.

There has never, for example, been any doubt of the total commitment of the United States' ambassador at the UN, Arthur Goldberg, to the cause of defeating the Smith regime; and even within the White House the president's most influential special assistant, Bill Moyers, has ever since the Peace Corps days been an uncompromising champion of African aspirations.

But there are competing pressures on the other side which are every bit as formidable.

Mr. Dean Rusk, the secretary of state, is scarcely a champion of American involvement in Africa. Nor, for that matter, is the entire treasury department — which remains fearful that any UN - provoked confrontation with South Africa must eventually mean the U.S. once again being asked to bail Britain out of fresh economic difficulties.

Among the president's political advisers there is in addition a lively consciousness that, with Britain doing nothing to help America in Vietnam, the cause of coming to Mr. Wilson's rescue over Rhodesia is scarcely likely to pass unchanged either by the Republicans, or — for that matter — by Southern segregationists within the Democratic Party.

Perhaps, however, the weightiest argument with the president in reaching any decision over whether to give the mandatory sanctions campaign the force of law within the U.S. will be the views of American businessmen — representing a national political constituency that no president can afford to ignore.

In this respect there is an especial complication in the case of LBJ. It is not just that — perhaps because he served the political apprenticeship in Texas — he has always paid the scrupulous respect to the views of the business community; even more to the point in the present instance is his personal friendship with one of the wealthiest men in the whole of America, Charles Englehard, the chairman of Rand Mines, who also serves as the only American to sit on the boards of such South African organizations as the Native American Association and the Native Recruiting Corporation.

Earlier this year Mr. Englehard — who also happens to be a massive financial contributor to the Democratic Party — spelled out his own personal philosophy.

"As a businessman," he announced, "you have certain obligations as a guest in the country in which you do business. One of these obligations consists of not criticizing what they do at home, since you don't want them to criticize what we do at home."

Mr. Englehard — often rumored to be a model for Ian Fleming's Goldfinger — may be a figure little known to the public except in Africa (where his mere presence as an official American representative at the Zambian independence celebrations in 1964 provoked a storm of protest from African nationalists). But there is an unmistakable apprehension not least on the Africa desk of the state department that his will turn out to be the most powerful voice whispering in the president's ear.

If that does prove to be the case, the proposed mandatory sanctions campaign, can be written off before it has begun. For it is not just a matter of what the U.S. does to control its own exports to Rhodesia at source; far more important is the degree of engagement in the present crisis that it demonstrates to the rest of the world. All Mr. Arthur Goldberg's speeches at the UN could easily go for nothing if, for one moment, it begins to be suspected abroad (particularly in Africa) that it is Mr. Englehard's latter-day Cecil Rhodes who is in effective control of actual American policy.

The best way for the president to banish that suspicion would undoubtedly be for him to ask Congress for powers to make any trade with Rhodesia a criminal activity. Perhaps the best tribute to Mr. Englehard's power is that virtually no one expects him to do so.

Wrong Day for Voting

Our Readers' Views

To be considered for publication in this column, letters must be on subjects of general interest and if signed with pen-name, must be accompanied by writer's name and address. Preference will be given to those that are brief.

THE reasons seem obvious why the percentage turnout of voters is so small in recent civic elections. Saturday has been chosen as polling day when most voters are home enjoying their weekly rest and relaxation, so that Victoria citizens are expected to drop everything and dress up to undertake a special journey to town in either car or bus, solely to register their vote.

Moreover Saturday is the only day of the week when most people have the opportunity to patronize a beer parlor, only to find themselves deprived of this privilege because it is election day.

It is about time that more consideration was given to the long suffering public the candidates hope will elect them to office.

A VOTER

Drinking Lure

When are Canadians going to insist on being treated like adults and not schoolchildren?

In England last summer I mentioned that in Canada all beer parlors and liquor stores are closed on election day. As expected, this produced a howl of laughter from people who refuse to be pushed around by narrow-minded legislators and whose taverns are open seven days a week.

No Englishman would ever tolerate some of the laws we have in Canada; especially an insane law which suggests that because a Canadian has a drink it will affect his judgment as a voter. One effect of closing the Greater Victoria taverns is that hundreds of "voters" have driven out to Six-Mile House and the Colwood Inn, both jammed to the doors. Wake up Canada!

Teenage Centres

I was glad to see some letters on topics other than politics and so in reference to a letter by Miss Angelina McAndrew, I would like to say the topic of her letters, "unhappy kids", interests me; and should interest everyone. We have come to a stage in life, where teenagers are allowed to run wild, and act almost like criminals and something should be done about it.

Her idea of centres of entertainment for the youth of our generation sounds as though it would be the beginning of a project to reform the wild element among the teenage group and is in my opinion estimation worth considering. They need clubs and meeting places where they can enjoy themselves and maybe lose their urge to mob together and become responsible for a lot of wildness.

Tommy-rot

With reference to the controversy over the unification of the armed forces, in The Colonist of July 17, 1966, it was stated that Admiral William Landymore had said that Defence Minister Helmer's suggestion that the military wants to control government policy was "tommy-rot."

A resident of Victoria asserted that the use of this phrase "tommy rot" was not a Canadian expression. However, on being challenged on the telephone to provide the Canadian equivalent to "tommy-rot," he could not do so, most parallel expressions being of American origin.

I have just completed reading a recent book "Cariboo Cowboy" which seems to provide the answer. It states that a meeting was arranged between ranchers and Indians by the authorities in Victoria over disputed grazing rights on public range land. The older Indians sat silently and sternly except now and then one would say in a throaty guttural blast: "Umph!" A politician (after his best hearing) asked what "Umph" meant and was told by a knowledgeable forest ranger that it meant "bull," i.e. "tommy-rot."

"Umph" is a word which seems to fit the unification program to a tee, even if it comes as far from the sea as the Cariboo, B.C. Incidentally, while watching on TV the return of the astronauts, Captain A. Lovell and Major E. A. Aldrin, USAF, on board USS Wasp, I did not notice any nonsense of amalgamated uniforms worn by the seamen and marines. The principals even wore distinctive astronaut caps which they were obviously proud of — as well they might.

Restlessness

Restless Gerry Clark, Canada's roving reporter, is a good one to talk about "Why Are Canadians So Restless?" After years of galloping through crowded cities like Hong Kong, Moscow, London — and you name it — he should be aware by now that Canadian "restlessness" is no match for Russian, Chinese, American and even European.

Whatever psychiatrists from concentration camps insist (and they were crowded), lebensraum surely isn't our problem. We Canadians are bedevilled by a foment of the soul, such as it is.

We're soft. We'd like to have the guts to open up the Peace River district all over again, or cross the Great Divide... But that was done by restless folk from other worlds, other times. Such people still exist, too.

Let's blame our dissatisfaction with ourselves on our cozy leadership. It's not only convenient, but probably the right thing to do.

The Greeks colonized as far as Georgia and fought even to India. The Romans almost but not quite subdued Britain. The Polynesians took over New Zealand... You can go on.

They did these things for economic reasons, as well as from a spirit of simple adventure. But they had help: from their governments. Just as Russia today is opening up her north for settlement and production.

No wonder the Russians are ahead of us!

Vietnam

Many people believe that the U.S.A. is prepared to negotiate for peace, but that North Vietnam is not. The December 12 issue of Newsweek carries the report of an interview with U. Thant in which he has let some important cat out of this bag of confusion.

The first of these is that, between September 1964 and January 1965 — i.e. before the bombing of North Vietnam began — U. Thant and Adlai Stevenson were working closely together for peace. They were able to make private arrangements with Ho Chi Minh under which the latter was prepared to send an envoy from North Vietnam to Rangoon to meet a U.S. envoy to discuss negotiations for a peaceful settlement. The Burmese government had agreed to make all necessary arrangements for such a private meeting.

The second is that Adlai Stevenson was amazed and "miserable" when after he had made all these arrangements he was informed by his government that it was not prepared to cooperate; instead, the very next day the bombing of North Vietnam began.

The third is that, since Adlai Stevenson's death, the U.S. has denied that Stevenson was authorized to reject the Rangoon meeting.

The fourth is that, until he met U. Thant in October 1966, President Johnson had been "will largely unaware of the essential facts of Thant's peace-making efforts."

All this makes one realize that there may well be no unified executive command in the U.S.A. at all, and that Johnson may be more of a puppet than we know. If it is so, who is really pulling the strings?

Santa Street

Last year, my children had a visit to what was called "Santa Street." They rode a train, enjoyed a visit with Santa in his own house, and were delighted with all the displays and colorful lights. It was a real Christmas treat.

This year, when we went downtown, they were disappointed to find Broad Street just another street. I asked why they had not decorated the street and was told "We couldn't get a permit from the city."

I wish that whoever was responsible for forbidding Victoria's best Christmas display would explain their reasoning. It seems that other cities can turn streets into malls without trouble — and we can do it for two years, but not three. Maybe someone else was jealous because there was such a nice display — why didn't they make an even nicer one instead of spoiling the only real Christmas attraction in Victoria? Now there isn't anything special for the children at all.

Then I see in Saturday's paper that the police are having trouble with jaywalkers on Broad Street — and I also saw three policemen trying to sort out the traffic mess at Broad and View and Broad and Fort. Last year there were no jaywalkers and no traffic problems either. I think that not closing Broad Street this Christmas was thoughtless from two points of view — It disappointed the children and it made lots of trouble for both pedestrians and drivers.

Maybe it's too late for this year, but we should have a Christmas "Street" on Broad Street next year.

SUBSCRIBER

Fluoridation

U. Thant declared Dec. 10 to be United Nations Human Rights Day. On this day the voters of Oak Bay gave a resounding no to the proposal that sodium fluoride be put in the water supply thereby deniving the people of their basic human right not to be forced to take drugs against their will.

The doctors and dentists prescribe different dosages for children of different ages and then turn right around and say the same dosage should be given to everyone, knowing full well that the same drug can harm some people while benefiting others. This is both unscientific and unethical and shows an unprofessional attitude the implications of which should be carefully pondered by all.

The opinion that nevertheless it is in the public interest to do this shows a complete failure to realize that no one has the right to force other people to take drugs because in their opinion it is in the public interest. It is a fact that they have thereby violated a basic human right. Clear thinking is basic to the maintenance of human rights.

We sincerely thank all those voters of Oak Bay who backed ours and U. Thant's stand for human rights. We are in favor of anyone taking any drugs they wish but strongly resent their assumption that they have the right to force their opinions on everyone unnecessarily.

Too Soft

Many readers will understand, but I do not think too many will sympathize with your young correspondent, Miss McAndrew, of Toronto, in her criticism of Victoria as "dead" and "unfriendly." After all, she is an intelligent young woman. She must have learned, before she came to Victoria, that 60 per cent of our people here are 60 years of age or over, and that it is essentially a "retired" place, where older people predominate, and therefore, quite naturally, more attention is paid to them.

Some of us are grateful indeed that in a world which worships youth, and despises the aged, there is one place in Canada where the older folk feel that they count! Long may it endure! One wonders what the reaction to Miss McAndrew's letter may be from many thousands of fine, native-born Victoria young people? Do they ALL long to escape from this "dead" place?

Four pages of our newspaper each day advertise many varied activities, all with an attraction to youth. And these are the fine new Y.M.C.A. Where are the vigorous, resourceful young people of yesteryear, who found fun wherever they went?

Personally, I feel this complaint of youth, typified by Miss McAndrew's letter, stems from our too-soft, easy age. There were few such complaints in the 1930s, as the young people of those days will remember! Challenge and hardship beget resourcefulness.

Moreover, her suggestions do not hold water; Vancouver has numerous places of amusement exclusively for the young. Yet Vancouver has one of the worst records for hoodlums and delinquents in the country.

UNCONVINCED.

LSD

With reference to the article in the papers, "Children with schizophrenia make contact through LSD" I should think it is the parents of the children who should be "put on a journey" as it were. It is like saying to the child, "Here dear, we can't give you love, but have the only thing we CAN offer you, LSD!"

Hoax

Most of your readers will agree with columnist Tom Taylor that celebrating four centuries in nine years is an overdo. It is easily understood how he came to make the error in this paragraph of his column:

"Who knows also but 1968 might invite another birthday party — this time the 15th anniversary of the landing of James Douglas at Clover Point, actually the beginning of all this B.C. centenary collection."

The most successful hoax, or careless blunder, of the year was perpetrated by the B.C. Centennial Committee on July 23. The committee proposed the re-enactment of an event that never was, by a man who was not there.

Thousands of spectators, including the mayor of Victoria and the reeves of the surrounding municipalities, gathered to observe the landing of Chief Factor James Douglas, Captain McNeill and Father Baidou from the replica of the S.S. Beaver. The event was to have taken place at Clover Point. The climax of the hoax was when Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes shook hands with Captain McNeill, impersonated by Harry Hill.

The historical facts are that on March 13, 1843, the Beaver, under the command of Captain William Brodie, anchored off Shoal Point, not Clover Point. Captain William Henry McNeill had sailed for England in the latter part of 1842 as supercargo of the Cowlish. He returned to the Pacific coast in the spring of 1844 in actual command of the same vessel, although William Heath was in nominal command.

Chinese Crush New Tibet Revolt

By B. C. NAG, from New Delhi

According to sources close to the Dalai Lama, a large-scale anti-Chinese uprising took place in Tibet last month, second largest outburst since 1959. That revolt culminated in the complete subjugation of Tibet by the Chinese and the consequent flight of the Dalai Lama to India.

The most recent uprising was ruthlessly suppressed by the unequal Chinese military might, resulting in "several" casualties. Further details were not available. But from the meagre information at hand it is believed there were reprisals.

Some rebels who escaped into Bhutan and Sikkim have now crossed into India. They took shelter in the Darjeeling region of West Bengal.

The immediate cause of the revolt was said to be an attack launched by the Red Guards on Tibetan culture and religion.

In their bid to purge the anti-Mao elements, bourgeois capitalists and other "reactionaries," the Red Guard directed their attacks on some top Tibetan officials who hitherto collaborated with the Chinese and also on some of the important lamas whom the Chinese had themselves promoted.

According to Tibetan refugees in Darjeeling, the top religious officials purged include Rading Rimpoche and Lhazum Rimpoche of the famous Sera monastery and Tadjkar Rimpoche of the Drepung monastery. Sera with Drepung and Ganden form Tibet's Big Three and they are next in importance only to the Potala monastery, the traditional seat of the Dalai Lama.

Among the lay officials purged the most important is believed to be Yampheal Pandatsang, a vice-chairman of the trade and commerce wing of the Tibet Autonomous Region. Recently he was publicly humiliated and put under the charge of a Red Guard unit to work as a laborer.

Another important target of the Red Guards' attack is Radio Lhasa which is accused of anti-Mao activities. The radio is now so strictly controlled that it only broadcasts translations from Radio Peking.

Many top Chinese officials, particularly those associated with Radio Lhasa and cultural organizations, figure in the purge. Shi Tas Tung, head of the propaganda department in Lhasa, is the most important.

The only top Tibetan official who retains his post, but not his power, is Ngagou Nawang Jigme, co-chairman of the Tibet Autonomous Region. He was one of the principal signatories of the 17-point agreement with the Chinese Peoples' Republic of May 23, 1951, which virtually handed over power to the Red Chinese.

In their crusade against "old thinking, old ways and old culture," the Red Guards have issued a 20-point declaration monasteries and the stopping of all religious practices, including the celebration of Halam, Tibet's most important religious festival.

All prayer flags have been removed and even the burning of joss sticks and counting of beads are prohibited. The monasteries have been converted into Communist cells where young Tibetans are given lessons on Mao's "teachings."

In a bid to enforce the proletarian cultural revolution in this land of Buddhism the Red Guards are also circulating a statement, purported to have been issued by Tibetan monks and nuns, expressing their intention to give up celibacy and get married.

Smith Addicted to Second Thoughts

Rhodesia 'Peace' Hope Alive

By JOSEPH MacSWEEEN

From London

Some reports from Southern Africa indicate lingering hopes of an Anglo-Rhodesian settlement even though the Rhodesian crisis clock, so long stuck at the 11th hour, has finally moved past midnight.

Government spokesmen are restrained in their reaction.

They do not knock speculation on the head. But they emphasize that Britain is firmly embarked on a course clearly charted in the communiqué of the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in September.

They note, too, that although Prime Minister Johannes Balthazar Vorster of South Africa has pleaded with Britain and Rhodesia to get together again, he said nothing about assisting in any kind of a mediatory role.

Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith has been making conciliatory noises but he has done nothing about implementing Britain's "six principles" as Commonwealth Secretary Herbert Bowden invited him to do.

Smith is regarded as a man exceptionally prone to second thoughts — second thoughts that at times seem cleverly contrived to divide his British contemporaries. In this context, the sooner the United Nations Security Council proclaims compulsory sanctions against Rhodesia, the earlier will be the chances of getting something clear cut from Smith.

The official British view is that — in accordance with Prime Minister Wilson's pledge to his Commonwealth colleagues — the Rhodesian affair now has been committed to an irrevocable procedure.

The sanctions resolution will go through the UN Security Council, given full Commonwealth support; thereupon Britain withdraws all offers of legal independence to Rhodesia on anything less than majority rule in the country of 220,000 whites and 4,000,000 blacks.

The trouble is that the Rhodesian affair has been surrounded so long with "ifs" and "buts" that this flat prospect seems difficult to swallow. It is doubtful if white — or black — Rhodesians really believe it.

They believe Britain's way is to give ground little by little in this dispute. Smith, in fact, has said that the terms offered by Wilson during their recent sea-borne conference aboard the cruiser Tiger were better than those offered before Rhodesia seized independence a year earlier.

David Butler, a former Rhodesian opposition leader — when there was a white opposition — puts the position in stronger terms. He says that by rejecting Wilson's terms, Smith "squandered the opportunity of a settlement that clearly favors the European."

And Sir Edgar Whitehead, former Rhodesian premier, estimated that the Wilson formula would have postponed majority rule into the next century. Whitehead, himself something less than a headlong advocate of multi-racialism, had envisaged majority rule for 1977 when he was in power.

Wheat Gamble Comes Off

By GEORGE NICHOLAS
From Salisbury

Rhodesia appears to have beaten the odds in the great wheat gamble into which it has been forced by economic sanctions.

From the country's lowveld (where for the first time wheat was grown this year by the square mile) to the suburbs of towns and cities (where townsmen grew it by the square yard) the aim was the same: to save foreign exchange.

It is impossible to estimate accurately the contribution made by the urban and made by the suburban "grow-it-yourself" wheat producers, but it was substantial.

Their "mini-plantings" have produced yields of from 42 to 70 bushels an acre.

The lowveld experiment was an attempt to produce a massive winter wheat crop from 2,400 acres of virgin land. The project has succeeded beyond all expectations. A yield of 42 to 45 bushels an acre was needed to recover costs, and an actual yield of nearly 50 bushels an acre was obtained.

It will be some time before the exact size of the whole of Rhodesia's wheat crop this year is known, but present indications are that it may be an all-time record crop in the region of 355,000 bushels. Last year Rhodesia produced 147,000 (a record) and the year before 74,200 bushels.

At this rapid rate of expansion Rhodesia may be self-sufficient in wheat within a decade. The country consumes about 3,150,000 bushels a year, supplied mainly by the United States, Canada and Australia.

Vancouver Mayor to Shed Playboy Image

New Campbell Is Coming

CP, from Vancouver

Thomas John Campbell, millionaire lawyer and real estate developer who learned quickly how to make headlines and polish his playboy image, is the new mayor of Vancouver. At 39, he's also the city's youngest mayor.

"Imagine it, a kid out of the east end getting to be mayor of Vancouver," said the long-shot candidate who burst on the political scene six years ago. "I guess all it takes is a lot of money and a loud mouth."

Mr. Campbell, running as an independent candidate, swept the east side working men's area and penetrated parts of the west end considered a stronghold of incumbent Bill Ratlie who had been mayor for four years.

The new mayor — by a margin of slightly more than 1,200 votes — promptly proclaimed himself "Tom the responsible leader" of the second biggest business in B.C." He also promised a calm approach to his new job as opposed to his tempestuous four-year career as alderman.

"That playboy image got me elected mayor, but it is going. I am the serious mayor of Vancouver who is going to try to be one of Vancouver's better mayors."

Vancouver, the country's third-largest city, first became aware of the colorful Campbell when he took a run at the mayoralty in 1960 because of city hall delays in one of his real estate projects. He made it to council in the 1962 aldermanic elections.

Mr. Campbell worked his way through University of British Columbia as a mechanic, life guard and seller of Christmas trees, although his family had the money to pay his way.

Three years after he graduated in law, he started in construction and real estate. He was 28 when he made his first million dollars.

When he was elected to council, he quickly established a reputation as a newsworthy type. He threatened to sue the city at his first council meeting. He threatened to hold press conferences to reveal what went on in secret council sessions. He spoke about defying council's orders to tear down old buildings of his judged to be eyesores. He charged police with involvement in criminal activities.

Opponents made much of his poor attendance at council meetings. He had the poorest attendance record on council in 1965 and failed to attend half the meetings of the civic government committee which he headed.

Mr. Campbell said he had better things to do than "sit around a sewing circle." But he improved his attendance in 1966.

One of his ploys in council was to make a sensational charge, then expand the subject outside to waiting reporters. When council voted on the matter, the flamboyant Campbell would still be outside with the reporters.

Mr. Campbell estimated campaign expenditures of $13,000 for the job that will pay him $16,000 a year for the next two years.

He said his campaign promise of more color will be fulfilled in centennial year. "Next year I am going to have dancing in the streets. Canada is only 100 years old once and that is next year. We want action. This is a big, big year."

The new mayor, his wife, Julie and their three children live on Puget Drive in the west end while workmen are building a $100,000 six-bed room house in fashionable Kerrisdale.

Threat to Macao Propaganda Ploy

By EDWARD NEILAN, from Hong Kong

The tiny Portuguese enclave of Macao appears to have escaped an immediate takeover by Communist China.

However, Peking is expected to maintain its "confrontation" of Macao for some time before suddenly dropping it at some future date.

Sources here believe that Macao is too valuable in its present status as a trade outlet for Red China to justify Peking seizing Portugal's foothold on the Chinese mainland.

But, despite Macao's acceptance of a set of demands by Peking, the Red Chinese are expected to keep the issue alive to gain propaganda mileage with African nations opposed to Portuguese colonies on that continent. China has been trying in recent years, mostly unsuccessfully, to increase its influence in Africa.

World's Best Friend Disney Dead

at Disneyland and at Walt Disney High School in Anaheim and elsewhere in that Orange County city.

His world-wide awards, honors and citations filled 29 typewritten pages and totalled about 700, including 29 Oscars, four Emmys, the Irving Thalberg award, the Presidential Freedom Medal and the French Legion of Honor.

Since 1937, when Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs flashed on the silver screen, Disney produced nearly 100 feature-length pictures, including such classics as Pinocchio, Cinderella, Treasure Island, Alice in Wonderland, Peter Pan, Robin Hood, Sleeping Beauty, Kidnaped, Swiss Family Robinson, Pollyanna and Mary Poppins.

Disney dispatched camera crews to wilderness areas to film The Living Desert and The Vanishing Prairie. These were preceded and followed by other nature study epics—true life adventures—which gave armchair viewers a vicarious thrill. They also earned Disney more than a half-dozen Oscars.

Overcoming with creative energy and boyish enthusiasm, Disney dreamed for 20 years of creating an amusement park combining the delights of history and fantasy.

On July 18, 1955, Disney's dream came true. He opened the doors to Disneyland in Anaheim, Calif. It cost him $17,000,000 and consisted of 22 attractions, shops, exhibits and restaurants.

Ten years later, more than $50,000,000 was invested in the park and its attractions neared the 50 mark while its acreage had increased to 300 acres from the original 200.

In its first 10 years of operation, Disneyland hosted about 50 million visitors, including commoners and king. Former Russian Premier Khrushchev was outraged when security reasons precluded his touring the park. Disney's twilight years did not prevent him from planning future projects. Right to the very end, Disney was engaged actively in plans for development of an amusement park in Florida similar to Disneyland and an all-year resort in California's rugged Mineral King area near Fresno.

"What happens to Disneyland and the studio when you're gone?" a UPI reporter asked Disney two years ago over lunch at his studio.

"What will happen will be interesting to know," said the mustachioed showman. "But maybe it's just as well that I don't know."

A Disney spokesman said all the projects would go on as scheduled, including those Disney was planning at the time of his death.

A telephone operator at the studio fought back tears as calls poured into her switchboard.

"He was so loved, so loved," she said. "He must have been one of the world's greatest men. He wasn't a boss to us. He was a friendly man who loved us and we loved him."

Within minutes of the announcement of Disney's death, word was passed that his funeral services would be private—family only. Disney is survived by his widow, Lillian, and two married daughters, Mrs. Ronald Miller and Mrs. Robert Brown. The family requested that in lieu of flowers donations be made to the California Institute of the Arts in care of Walt Disney Productions in Burbank, Calif. Disney was born Dec. 5, 1901, in Chicago. His father, Elias Disney, was an Irish-Canadian contractor. His mother, Flora Call Disney, was of German-American descent.

Creditor Cries 'Lynch' shouted "No!" also got loud applause.

One speaker, Spurge C. Near of Toronto, who reported losing $10,000 in what he called the Bisco, said some important and honorable names were being smeared, and creditors were blaming the government for their own investment failures.

He was shouted down and finally gave up trying to speak. Missing from the theatre was Joseph Benoit Brien, 51-year-old president of Prudential Finance who faces six charges in connection with the investigation of the matter conducted by the Ontario Securities Commission.

THEFT, FORGERY

The charges include theft and forgery.

Mr. Biddell said Brien's lawyers had explained he was ill and unable to attend.

Mr. Biddell gave this outline of Prudential Finance's situation: In the period since 1962 when Brien took control, the company's books show an operating loss of $900,000. Clarkson's investigation had indicated an operating loss—aside from losses on subsidiaries—of about $11,000,000.

INTEREST PAID

Less than $3,000,000 income had been earned in the five years, but $6,100,000 had been paid in interest to noteholders. Another $1,500,000 had been spent in raising money.

Other expenses in Prudential Finance's loan and finance business were reported as $4,400,000, and it had had debt losses of $1,600,000.

Mr. Biddell also gave these apparent losses on subsidiaries: About $2,000,000 had been spent in supporting Filson Steel, a company now in bankruptcy and which Mr. Biddell said has practically no assets.

Another $2,000,000 had gone into Ontario Metal Specialties. Again, no assets, Mr. Biddell said.

Two insurance companies—North American General Insurance of Montreal and Wentworth Insurance of Toronto—represent losses of $1,200,000, Mr. Biddell said.

Banks

Extradition Far

Disappearing Banks Can Give Thanks To Red-Tape Snags

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Fugitive Hal Banks has a breather of weeks, maybe months, before Canada is able to seek his extradition from the U.S.

The cause of mysterious delays in extradition proceedings against Banks was explained by Solicitor General Pennell in the Commons Thursday.

The results of the investigation have been turned over to John Cassella, Ottawa's crown attorney, who has asked the RCMP to make further investigations.

WAS CLOSED

As far as the RCMP was concerned, the investigation was closed and complete. Now it is open again, creating the new delays.

According to sources here, the RCMP only began its new investigation this week and it could last "weeks or months."

Mr. Cassella is probably the busiest crown attorney in Canada.

NEW TRIAL

Besides the Banks case, he is preparing to conduct the crown's case at the new trial in February of Raymond Denis, the former ministerial aide accused of attempted bribery.

For the Banks case, Cassella is reviewing all the voluminous evidence given to Mr. Justice Norris' inquiry into waterfront violence.

The perjury charge would relate to evidence given by Banks before Mr. Justice Norris.

FIVE YEARS

Perjury is an extraditable offence. Awaiting Banks in Canada is a five-year jail term for conspiracy to commit assault.

Tory Leader John Diefenbaker has assailed the government for years over its handling of the Banks case.

And, Thursday night, he did it again:

SOME 'PASSING'

"I want to see him brought back," he said. "At the moment, there seems to be some passing of responsibility between Ottawa and Toronto and back."

The case, he said, was now in the hands of the crown attorney, and that was where it should be.

The RCMP had determined that there was a case, he said. Solicitor General Pennell's answers in the Commons earlier had indicated that.

'FINE DAY'

"It will be a fine day for Canadian justice," Mr. Diefenbaker said, "when this all-powerful boss who, for so long pushed the present government around, returns to the land he loved so much."

Mr. Diefenbaker repeated the charge he made through the last election campaign, that Banks was a "pet" of the present government.

Solicitor General Pennell said the results of the investigation had been turned over to the appropriate law officers of the province.

MORE INFORMATION

The Ottawa crown attorney had asked for further information from the RCMP — "and we are now conducting a further investigation at his request."

Asked about Mr. Diefenbaker's statement that there was a strong case against Banks, Mr. Pennell replied:

"This is a matter to be determined by the crown attorney, who now is having all the facts placed before him."

He said he had discussed the case with Ontario's Attorney General Wishart — "We are co-operating very closely."

Iraq Urged to Seize Oil

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Lefist Syria Thursday urged Iraq to nationalize its rich western-run oilfields and promised to give reduced rates along the trans-Syrian pipeline if this was done.

Syria started an oil war in the middle east last week by seizing the 35-mile pipeline and other assets from the western-owned Iraq Petroleum Company after the company balked at paying a 100-per-cent increase in transit and export royalties.

Syrian Foreign Minister Ibrahim Makhous, who is visiting Baghdad, Iraq, offered to reduce the transit royalties for nationalized Iraqi oil, Baghdad radio reported.

MORE TALKS

Makhous was to fly to Paris from Baghdad for talks with French officials. There was speculation that he might try to win French backing for Syria in its dispute with the IPC.

A French concern, however, owns 23.75 per cent of the company. The remaining interests are American, British and Dutch.

Makhous also rejected IPC's call for arbitration in a statement to the Iraq News Agency.

SKIING PICKS UP

The number of skiers in North America increases at 20 per cent a year.

BROADCAST SPEECH

Earlier, in Damascus, Syrian Premier Youssef Zayyan declared in a broadcast speech that "Arab oil is for the Arabs."

and warned that Arabs could sell their oil to companies outside the existing international market structure. He was apparently referring to the Soviet Union.

Makhous declared Wednesday that Russia is prepared to buy Middle East oil.

In Cairo, a Soviet source described Makhous' statement as "realistic." He pointed out that the Soviet Union was suffering from domestic oil shortages because of foreign commitments of its production.

New Tax Source Still Secret

VANCOUVER (CP)—Finance Minister Sharp says there will be an increase in taxes to pay for higher pensions but he did not specify whether this would be in the corporation, personal income tax or other tax fields. He said details must wait until he introduces his mini-budget in the Commons next week.

"Whether it (the increase) is for corporations or the average person, I really can't reveal until Monday," he said Wednesday in an interview.

The Canadian Press reported erroneously Wednesday that Mr. Sharp had said there would be a general increase in income tax.

Widow Opposed

Kennedys Divided on Book?

NEW YORK (AP)—Conflicting reports circulated Thursday as to whether Senator Robert F. Kennedy and Mrs. John F. Kennedy stand together in her lawsuit to stop publication of the controversial book about the assassination of her husband.

There is no conceivable conflict, an aide to the senator said. "He doesn't oppose the suit."

However, a source closely involved in the battle said, "our lawyers are getting strong indications that Senator Kennedy wants to get out and doesn't think it (the suit) was a good idea, to begin with."

On File Today?

Former federal judge Simon Rifkind, who represents Mrs. Kennedy in the court action, said, "I have talked with Senator Kennedy from time to time. I have the impression that he supports Mrs. Kennedy."

Rifkind said he hopes to file the complaint in the state Supreme Court at least by Saturday and possibly today.

It is not clear whether Mrs. Kennedy will be called to testify.

He said the suit is based primarily on the contention that the book, Death of a President, by William Manchester, will be reviewed by Mrs. John F. Kennedy and Senator Robert Kennedy and the text shall not be published unless and until approved by them.

Jackie

Robert

Therefore, Rifkind said, it will not be necessary in the lawsuit to bring out the passages of the book which Mrs. Kennedy says are "factual and distorted" and constitute an invasion of her privacy.

"The complete manuscript

A high-ranking member of the Kennedy administration said, "It's clear that Manchester took the stuff from the tape recorder when Mrs. Kennedy was not in control of her emotions."

Also, the book presents a rather unfortunate picture of President Johnson."

Statement Held

A source in the publishing world said "Manchester has prepared a complete statement, telling absolutely everything in complete detail and intends to issue it today. But the lawyers have told him not to, to hold it in reserve."

The Yale Daily News quotes publisher Bennett Cerf as saying he read the book, and as recounting one of the episodes in it. The student newspaper says Cerf addressed an audience at Yale's Pierson College Wednesday night.

The passage in the book covers an event at Love Airfield in Dallas, Tex., shortly after the assassination of President Kennedy.

Presidential Jet

The student newspaper quotes Cerf that Mrs. Kennedy and the late president's aides remained at the hospital in Dallas while then vice-president Lyndon B. Johnson and his entourage went to the airfield. Two airplanes, the presidential and vice-presidential planes were parked there. The newspaper quotes Cerf as saying:

"The airplanes were identical in construction and furnishings... the Johnson party reached the airfield first and, knowing President Kennedy was dead, boarded the presidential jet. When the Kennedys returned to the airfield with the coffin and discovered that the presidential plane was already occupied, they were shocked and infuriated."

Publishers Wait

In London, the publishers of Manchester's book said they were awaiting the outcome of legal moves to stop its publication. The Sunday Times, owned by Canadian-born Lord Thomson, which bought the serial rights, also is waiting.

Look magazine has set publication of the first serialized article for Jan. 10. Harper and Row, book publishers, scheduled it for April 7. William Attwood, editor-in-chief of Look, said "the presses are rolling, they have been rolling for days."

Youth Fund Needs Boost

Public contributions to a travel fund for a Christmas youth conference in Ontario's Waterloo University are being solicited in Greater Victoria by the Student Union for Peace Action.

Senators Knock Medicare

OTTAWA (CP)—Two doctors in the Senate have sharply criticized the government's medical care insurance plan.

Senators Joseph Sullivan (P.C. Ontario) and F. W. Gershaw (L. Alberta) said during Senate debate Wednesday that universal coverage is not a good feature of the plan.

Senator Sullivan, 64, accused the government of "foolishly rushing into socialism" with costly welfare programs that encouraged "laziness and malingering."

Senator Gershaw, 83, said it has been shown that costs rise

'Tide of Battle' Turns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Lyndon Johnson told Americans Thursday that the "tide of battle has turned" in the Vietnam war but the end is not yet in sight.

Both in a solemn speech to some war veterans making a pre-Christmas tour of the White House and during a nationally televised ceremony lighting the national Christmas tree, Johnson cautioned of more difficulty ahead.

"But we can say that aggressive war will last . . . the months the Bill of Rights, Johnson said, has been blunted and that ahead will not be easy ones. 'I know we face an uncertain future. Grave problems threaten us all. As your president, I am speaking on the 17th anniversary of the ratification of our Constitution, the day when we began our struggle with these every waking moment of every day.'"

Peace in Vietnam "is still 'some time' ahead," Johnson said, although "the tide of the battle has turned." He added, "No one can say how long that

Bombers Strike But Not Hanoi

SAIGON (UPI) — American fighter-bombers struck North Vietnam again Thursday but stayed away from the Hanoi area. A report issued by the U.S. command Friday categorically denied that the Communist capital was bombed in raids Tuesday and Wednesday.

In Washington, U.S. officials said damage to Hanoi proper may have been caused by Communist anti-aircraft missiles and artillery fire.

"A complete review of pilot reports and photographs show that all ordnance expended by American aircraft fell in the military target areas," the official Saigon report said of the raids earlier this week. "None fell in the city of Hanoi."

HIT RAILROAD

The report said on both Tuesday and Wednesday pilots hit the Yen Viet railroad yards six miles northeast of Hanoi and Van Dien truck depot five miles south of the city.

In the raid Wednesday, American pilots reported seeing a Communist surface-to-air missile hit a North Vietnamese junk in the Hanoi vicinity.

South Vietnamese sources said two spans of the mile-long bridge spanning the Red River at Hanoi were hit during the raid, but they reported no evidence that American bombs struck the bridge.

ERRANT SHELL

These sources suggested that it could have been hit by an errant anti-aircraft shell or missile.

U.S. pilots reported they left Hanoi covered with clouds of smoke rising a mile into the air after attacks on the outskirts of the city Wednesday.

American headquarters in Saigon reported three jets lost in the Wednesday attacks, far short of the 10 claimed by Communist radio broadcasts.

One was shot down by a Soviet MIG-21—the sixth jet claimed by MIGs in the war. The air force pilot was rescued, but two navy pilots shot down by groundfire were lost.

The losses brought to 446 the Tough Line

Bombing Blasted By Reds

MOSCOW—In a harsh formal declaration, the Soviet government Thursday condemned American air strikes against the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi.

The latest outburst was the first Soviet attack of this nature in several months.

Moscow assailed American air raids over the Hanoi area as a "cynical manifestation of the aggressive policy of the U.S. imperialism, violation of international law and generally recognized standards of human morals and humanitarianism."

(In Washington, the state department denied that U.S. planes bombed within Hanoi's city limits on either Tuesday or Wednesday.)

OUTRAGES

The Kremlin's statement, carried by the official Soviet news agency Tass, said the U.S. "Crimes entail the gravest responsibility before the world." Moscow said these "outrages" call for condemnation from "every honest person."

While the declaration did not promise any new Russian response to the southeast Asia crisis, it nevertheless suggested a possible harder Russian line on Vietnam in coming weeks.

VOLUNTEERS

The declaration, for example, reminded the Johnson administration of an even broader policy statement put out at a meeting of Communist nations in Romania last July. At that meeting the Soviet Union and other Communist countries pledged a willingness to send "volunteers" to Vietnam at the request of Hanoi.

Moscow charged that American military actions in the Hanoi area constitute a "new grave crime." The government said such actions "cause further aggravation of the international situation."

Ouimet Defends Sunday

OTTAWA (CP) — Television programs about sex sparked a spirited debate Thursday between CBC President Alphonse Ouimet and the Senate finance committee.

Indignant senators accused the new CBC program Sunday of invading Canadian homes with immoral, obscene and dangerous films and panel discussions.

For three hours, they bombarded Mr. Ouimet with heated questions. They suggested that Sunday producers be disciplined and that CBC programming be controlled more tightly by management.

IMPRACTICAL

The CBC president defended Sunday and said it would be impractical to have internal censorship of TV programs. "There has always been a consensus in Canada that broadcasting should be free and uncensored."

He repeated his earlier statement that a seven-minute British film shown on Sunday Nov. 27 was a mistake and that it an unmarried couple in bed, was a butchery denounced by Senate and Commons and led to the Senate committee hearing Thursday. A total of 28 senators attended.

Senator Josie Quart (PC—Quebec) called the Sunday series "a diabolical scheme to tear down the sanctity of marriage. Discussions about free love on the program encouraged teen-agers to 'revolt' against their parents."

"What is the purpose of your sex programs?" asked Senator Harry Hayes, former agriculture minister. "What are you trying to do? You can have the complete breakdown of marriage if that is your purpose."

Mr. Ouimet replied that Sunday informs the public about rapid changes in manners and tastes. Half the population was under the age of 25 and teenagers generally were "much more permissive and tolerant in matters of morals and standards than the older half."

"We served a purpose in opening the eyes of people who don't know this is going on."

Senator Gratian O'Leary (PC—Ontario) said Sunday's cost of $50,000 per program for 26 weeks is extravagant. Some subjects were not fit for television treatment.

Senator Louis-Philippe Beaubien (PC—Quebec) suggested that Sunday producer Daryl Duke and his aides be called before the committee to explain their objectives. He said the program has "a flavor of perversion."

Mr. Ouimet replied with heat that it would be "deplorable" if individual producers were hailed before parliamentary committees.

Africans Push Sanctions

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Black Africa Thursday night demanded quick approval of toughened economic sanctions against rebellious Rhodesia to forestall the possibility of new peace talks between Britain and Prime Minister Ian D. Smith's white minority government.

Rhodesian Group

Terms Acceptance Urged

SALISBURY (Reuters)—Lord Malvern, former Rhodesian prime minister, backed today a new appeal to the government to accept part of British terms to end the breakaway colony's independence crisis.

An anonymous group of Rhodesians, claiming broadly-based support, made the appeal in a full-page advertisement in the two main newspapers, the Rhodesia Herald and the Bulawayo Chronicle.

They called on the government to accept constitutional changes agreed upon in talks between Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith and British Prime Minister Wilson 10 days ago. Declaration of support for the appeal and send the forms to the government.

Hanoi Bombs Worry Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was jolted with fairly stiff loss amid concern about the U.S. economy and possible complications arising from the bombing in Hanoi.

Fairchild Camera toppled 6 1/2 to 34 1/2. Polaroid lost 3 1/2. Occidental Petroleum 2, Chrysler 1 1/2, Ford 1 and General Motors 1 1/2.

The death of Walt Disney caused selling in Walt Disney Productions. Trading was halted for 15 minutes. The stock fell 6 1/2 to 64 1/2, but it recovered in the closing minutes when a block of 22,500 shares was traded with the stock at 63, up 1 on the day and up 4 1/2 from the last trade prior to the halt.

Lornex Moves Up

VANCOUVER—Prices generally moved lower with a few exceptions. Lornex was up at 5.50 and Bethlehem made a low of 1.73 and Silver Titan 1 to 1.04.

Nickel Production Can't Catch Increasing Demand

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

For the first time in over 10 years nickel producers were unable to meet all the orders placed on them.

Henry S. Wingate, chairman of International Nickel Company of Canada, the world's largest nickel producer, said this happened because 1966 was "another record year of nickel consumption, and because of labor difficulties encountered in the United States."

Mr. Wingate said production had been affected by strikes and slowdowns at plants of International Nickel, Falconbridge and Societe Le Nickel, and because of the prevailing shortage of mining labor in Canada.

paid more than $223,000,000 in Canadian governments in various taxes in 1965. Federal excise tax accounted for $107,000,000 of the total.

New marketing appointments have been announced by British Columbia Packers Limited.

Eric S. Turnill, a recently elected director of the company, takes over a new post as general sales manager.

D. A. Anderson, becomes marketing manager of canned and reduction products, and A. Sherriff is new manager of fresh and frozen product sales.

Crash Backs Up Mile of Metal

Near head-on crash on Parson's Bridge at 5:10 p.m. backed rush-hour traffic up close to half a mile both ways on shiny black highway Thursday. Crash sent William Harkness, 201 Lascelles Crescent, to CFB Esquimalt Hospital with head injuries. He was admitted for X-rays. Colwood RCMP said other car was driven by Raymond Carroll, 2123 McNeil. — (Jim Ryan)

School Success

Concert at Oak Bay Proves Extra-Luminous

By BERT BINNY — A concert which opened Thursday at the Oak Bay Junior Secondary School Christmas Concert said: "... this permits the students and teachers to put their candle on a candlestick as it were."

Holiday Phone Rush

It Won't Be Easy To Page Operator

It won't be easy during the Christmas season to dial the telephone operator and say, "Get me the police" — or fire department or ambulance — a R.C. Telephone Co. official warned Thursday. "We know that our operator centres, while fully manned during the extremely heavy Christmas traffic period, can become so busy that callers cannot get through to them immediately," said J. E. Richards, company president.

Cyclist Dies In Crash

PARKSVILLE — A motorcyclist died after collision with an RCMP patrol car Thursday night at 8:00. The accident occurred near Errington on the Parksville-Alberni highway. Both vehicles were travelling toward Port Alberni. Dead is David S. McVey, 31, Port Alberni. Driver of the car was Cpl. L. C. Wagner.

Blood Clinic Attains Goal

The Red Cross blood clinic has passed its three-day objective of 1,000 pints needed over the Christmas season. The portable clinic at HMC Dockyard Thursday picked up 330 donors, bringing the total for the clinic to 1,047 pints.

Scouts Plan Sale of Trees

Fourth Cedar Hill Scout troop will sell Christmas trees at Lake Hill shopping centre this weekend and all next week. The trees, which will be sold for $1.25 to $2 to help purchase Cub and Scout equipment, will be on sale Friday evening, all day Saturday or Sunday afternoon — or any day next week from 4 to 8 p.m.

Libel Suit Against Maclean's

Gouzenko Awarded $1

TORONTO (CP) — A six-man Ontario Superior Court jury Thursday awarded $1 damages to Soviet defector Igor Gouzenko, 47, in his libel suit against Maclean's magazine. Mr. Gouzenko is the former Soviet Embassy cipher clerk who 21 years ago defected to Canada and exposed a Russian spy ring.

Crowd Kicks Pursuing Constable

VANCOUVER (CP) — George Thompson, 39, of Burnaby, was charged Thursday with escaping lawful custody and assaulting police Constable David Athens after a foot chase and struggle during which the constable was attacked by several people. Constable Athens was kicked in the head, legs, hip and back. He said a prisoner tore loose from his grip while he was escorting the man from the traffic court to police headquarters a block away. He said he caught the prisoner in front of the Balmoral Hotel where a violent struggle took place. The constable said about 65 people gathered in a circle and he was kicked by four or five men and one woman who tried to help the prisoner. The constable was rescued by Constable Ronald Butler who pushed his way through the crowd and helped Athens arrest the prisoner.

Manpower Seeking Analysts

Manpower will be looking for manpower (or womanpower) in Victoria in the new year. For Victoria itself, the manpower and immigration department will need an area analyst. He will be one of 33 new specialists to be hired to develop better information on job opportunities and on the potential of workers throughout Canada. The jobs to be filled include five regional supervisors for Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax, other jobs at the regional centres and at Ottawa headquarters, and area analysts for 13 cities from Victoria to St. John's. Salaries for the new professional staff, which will be part of a new manpower information and analysis branch, will range from $7,000 to $14,000 a year.

Blades Bring Warmth

CAMPBELL RIVER — At least one old-timer is convinced Father Christmas is still at work, now that his new stove has been delivered in time to warm his small cabin for the festive day. Joe Gurrey, 79, who lives in a neat little cabin at Race Point and commuted to town by boat, bought a stove 26 years ago. It finally wore out, and he ordered another one. When the first stove was purchased, he removed the engine to get it into his small boat, and rowed the eight miles home. His cabin is inaccessible by road. But Joe is not as young as he once was, and the rowing was impossible this time. The Okanagan Helicopters heard about the problem. They slung a cable around the 300-pound stove, and brought it right to Joe's door, despite wind and rain.

Woman Minister At Cabinet Meeting

Mrs. Grace McCarthy attended her first cabinet meeting Thursday. It was the first time in nearly five years that a woman had sat in on a cabinet meeting. Mrs. McCarthy, MLA for Vancouver Little Mountain, is one of three ministers without portfolio sworn in Monday by Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes. The other two, Mrs. Isobel Dawson (Mackenzie) and Mrs. Pat Jordan (North Okanagan), have yet to attend their first cabinet meeting.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

There has been a "burying of the hatchet" between several outdoor groups within the past few weeks and this can only result in a much better co-ordinated presentation of outdoor problems on all fronts in 1967.

The Amalgamated Conservation Society, representing 14 outdoor groups and 14,000 persons on lower Vancouver Island, has joined with the B.C. Wildlife Federation as an associate member and will work with the Federation in an advisory capacity to help form a new salmon fishing policy.

Pacific Salmon Society, a comparatively new Vancouver group interested in salmon problems, and members of Amalgamated Conservation Society met this week and a liaison program is being formulated.

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce has resumed active participation in the Amalgamated Conservation Society.

More liaison is to be sought between Salmon Unlimited of Campbell River and Save Our Salmon of Courtenay and both the ACS of Victoria and Pacific Salmon of Vancouver.

The Fishing Chapter of Victoria Fish and Game Club has voted to become a more active committee of the Fish and Game Club rather than, as it has been, almost a separate club on its own. That means that fishing will play a bigger part on the programs before general membership meetings.

Pacific Putters' Association, the organization of weekend and time-off commercial fishermen, who have often been butt or attacks by sports fishermen, is considering joining with Amalgamated Conservation Society's salmon rehabilitation studies and campaigns.

It is likely the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union will be invited to join with the Amalgamated Conservation Society and the Pacific Salmon Society in a combined effort for more satisfactory salmon rehabilitation projects.

It also might happen that an exchange of ideas may bring about some relief to Juan de Fuca Strait sports fishermen.

Not all these groups see eye to eye on all problems, but they all think alike in a number of directions and co-operation can bring about little but good.

More salmon is a common interest of all. Park development is another. The B.C. Wildlife Federation will be able to give support and add weight to ACS proposals regarding salmon fishing. The ACS will be able to benefit from the research the Federation has done on such problems as pollution and park development.

While the two groups won't function as one — they will each retain their own autonomy — the exchange of information, discussion and combined efforts will be to the mutual advantage of each group.

"One of our weakest aspects has been our saltwater fishing policy. There is drastic need to update our Federation's policies regarding saltwater fishing," Federation executive-director Howard Paish told ACS members last week, and he invited them to help form new fishing policies through the Victoria Fish and Game Club, which is an ACS member and a member of the Wildlife Federation.

Victoria Fish and Game Club, which has sometimes been a rebel in Federation activities, will host the Wildlife Federation Convention scheduled for the Empress Hotel in May.

To be held right on the doorstep of the provincial government this convention is expected to produce big things, both from the ease to approach government with demands and from the fact government experts will be near at hand for advice.

Freshwater fishing will be pretty well a writeoff this weekend because of flood conditions on all rivers. But there will be some who find spots where they can fish. Watch for that dropping water because that is the time to take steelhead in such rivers as the Sooke, Harris Creek and San Juan River, where water levels rise and fall like a yo-yo.

But, the saltwater presents a brighter picture. Saanich Inlet is producing pretty well for winter chinooks. Tod Inlet halfway to Willis Point, has been best spot and they are taking pretty well anything from Houtchie Kootchie to plugs, minnows and strip, one pound, and 100 feet of nylon on mornings, 150 feet of wire line and planer later in the day.

Grilse are still in good numbers in the Willis Point-Saanich Island-Ricky's Roost waters. At Goldstream springs (chinooks) are being taken between Hall's dock and Goldstream Island. Oak Bay has a few winter springs, and jacks showed at Pedder Bay this week and the big springs usually arrive a day or so later.

Duncan Bay at Campbell River has been hot for big springs up to 20 pounds. Most are being taken from boats, but spin-casters from the pulp mill dock have been getting them on a ¼-ounce Helldiver. Big springs are being taken right in the bay at Nanosch and Northwest Bay and off the wharves at Departure Bay.

Roy Fleming with a 16.12-pound spring (chinook) weighed at Creeds Landing 1966, the big Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association trophy-winner for November.

Wyn Rusk won the women's trophy with a 12.14-pounder from Finlayson Arm.

Hidden weight winners were Alf Joyce, H. Grant, D. Marsh and Bert Acres.

The club has seven Scottish-born players and three Canadians who can obviously claim privileged ancestry.

The Scots are centre-half Bill Hamilton, wing-halves George Paul, Tom Westwater and Jeff Sweet, and forwards Jim Menzies, Martin Taylor and Bert Soutar.

Then there are Canadians like McKay, Donald McIntosh and Duncan McCaig. You can't question their Celtic credentials.

Only Sassenach on the team is newcomer Peter Britt who has overcome the language barrier and the prejudice against the "auld enemy" to become the club's driving force at inside forward.

With that lineup and their dark blue shirts, O'Keefe's could almost pass as the fabled Rangers or the Scottish national team. Almost, anyway.

But the reliance on Scots isn't confined to Victoria. New Westminster, winners of four of their last six games, come to life this season after the addition of Jim Nicols, a former pro with St. Mirren in the Scottish first division.

All of which supports the old line that there are 4,000,000

FROM ENGLAND

In goal, Royals have Robin Davis who played in the Blackpool organization in Britain.

Tom Locke, formerly of Victoria, will be at a wedding and won't make the trip.

O'Keefe's only change from the team that beat North Shore 4-2, last week will be Soutar at outside right for Taylor.

Game time Saturday is 2 p.m. at Macdonald Park. No admittance to those who put sugar on their porridge or water in their whisky.

LOS ANGELES—The centre of a controversial trade between Los Angeles Blades and Detroit Red Wings paced the Blades to a 5-2 victory over Victoria Maple Leafs, Thursday night in the California city.

Hosie Young, the onetime bad boy of the National Hockey League, scored one goal and as-isted on two others as the Blades jumped into third place in the WHL, two points ahead of Oakland and six points back of Vancouver Canucks.

HAWKS UPSET

Earlier this week the Detroit Red Wings traded two players from their organization to purchase Young in an attempt to bolster their defensive corps.

Chicago Black Hawks, who have a working agreement with the Blades, squashed the deal and Young thus remained with the Blades organization.

GOALIE ASSISTED

Tommy McVie sent the Blades ahead when he combined with Young and Blades goalkeeper Jack Norris to beat Leafs Al Smith.

Just three minutes later Milan Marcetta put the Leafs back on even terms after taking passes from linemate Bob Barlow and defenceman Aut Erickson.

Young's goal in the second period came from just inside the blue line and went screaming past a surprised Smith. The goal was Young's fifth of the season and gave him 22 points for the year, fourth best of the Los Angeles club.

The Leafs stormed back and just moments later Bruce Carmichael evened the score when he combined with Gordy Redahl and Dick Lamoreux but here, the Leafs luck ran out.

With just seconds remaining in the middle period the Blades

Mei Pearson put them ahead to stay.

Los Angeles added two goals in the third period for good measure.

MILESTONE REACHED

Norm Johnson, long time WHL veteran, scored the last Blade marker. The goal established Johnson with 700 points since he joined the Western League. Dick Meissner scored the other Blades goal.

The loss snapped a two game win streak for the Leafs but they get the chance to get back in the winners circle tonight when they clash with San Diego.

Stockers Drought May End Tonight

Stockers North Americans, a new entry in the Esquimalt Hockey League, made their debut Nov. 4, with a 4-1 victory over Canadian Forces Base Combs.

Since that day, coach Doug Anderson's squad has failed to pick up any points and is in last place, two points behind the Combs.

Stockers will be trying for a share of third place when they play Combs tonight at 8:30. Their main task will be to keep high-scoring sailor Ken Maxwell out of the play.

Maxwell holds down third place in the scoring race behind Vikings Ted Sarkisian and Bill Rudyk.

Landry, Roland Receive Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Landry, who has brought Dallas Cowboys from an expansion team to a possible National Football League championship in just seven years, has been named coach of the year in the NFL.

The selection was made by a panel of sportscasters and writers from each of the NFL cities.

Landry breezed to the honor by a large margin with 19 votes against nine for Charley Winner of the St. Louis Cardinals.

ROOKIE GOT VOTES
Vince Lombardi of Green Bay Packers, George Allen of Los Angeles Rams, Otto Graham of Washington Redskins and Norb Hecker of Atlanta Falcons also received votes.

Landry, a former member of the New York Giants, went to Dallas in 1960 and his team compiled an 0-11-1 record in his first year at the helm.

Elsewhere in the NFL, Johnny Roland of the St. Louis Cardinals was, Thursday, named rookie of the year in the NFL.

RECEIVED BONES
Roland, a 1965 all-American from Missouri, received a large bonus to sign with the Cards last season.

He won in a close vote with Tommy Nobis, who won all-American honors for two years of the Atlanta Falcons.

In the Cards first 13 games Roland accounted for 1,568 yards with his running, pass throwing and pass catching. He has scored six touchdowns and has thrown one touchdown pass. He also leads the NFL in yards gained on returning punts.

Among those receiving votes

Cotton Stops Heavyweight

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Seattle veteran Eddie Cotton made an impressive debut as a heavy-weight here Tuesday night, stopping Charlie Hall with a perfectly-timed right hand in the first round of their scheduled ten-round bout.

Hall, a 181 pounder from Phoenix, Ariz., managed to regain his feet but referee Jim Rondeau called it a knockout, ending the fight after two minutes and 51 seconds. Cotton weighed in at 180.

Athlete of Year Award To Black Hawks' Hull

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Bobby Hull, blonde thunderbolt of the Chicago Black Hawks, has been named outstanding Canadian male athlete for the second year in a row.

Hull, who fought a tight race with runner Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont., in the 1965 voting, this year swept into first place by a comfortable margin over quarterback Russ Jackson of Ottawa Rough Riders.

CROTHERS SLIPPED
Crothers pulled only one vote — for third place — this time.

The 121 sports writers and broadcasters who voted in the 32nd annual Canadian Press year-end poll gave the 27-year-old left winger from Point Anne, Ont., 232 points.

71 more than Jackson, Canada's football player of the year.

Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., who won the U.S. amateur golf championship this year, was third 43 points behind Jackson.

Voters were asked to name the top three individual athletes in order of preference and points were computed on a 3-2-1 basis.

Hull polled 56 first-place votes, 25 seconds and 14 thirds. Jackson had 18 for first, 44 for second and 19 for third.

Cowan had 18 first-place votes, 20 for second and 24 thirds.

JEROME FOURTH

Harry Jerome of Vancouver, world record sprinter who won a gold medal in the 100-yard dash at Kingston, Jamaica, in the 1966 British Empire Games, was fourth with 91 points, 27 behind Cowan. Jerome shares the world record of 10 seconds over 100 metres with four others.

George Knudson of Toronto, the Winnipeg-born golfer who won individual honors at the Canada Cup matches in Tokyo, came on late to move into fifth spot ahead of swimmer Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls, B.C.

Knudson had 64 points on 14 firsts, seven seconds and eight thirds. Hutton, who won a gold, five second-place silvers and two bronzes at Jamaica, had 25 points on two firsts, five seconds and nine third-place votes.

SHATTERED RECORD

Hull, five-foot-10 and 183 pounds, broke the NHL scoring record last year with 54 goals and set a total-points record with 97.

The 27-year-old, who moved into the NHL 10 years ago from junior hockey, had tied the old 50-goal record in the 1961-62 season — sharing it with Maurice "Rocket" Richard and Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion, both of whom hit the mark playing with Montreal Canadiens.

One of the strongest players in hockey, his biceps are bigger than those of heavy-weight champ Cassius Clay.

TOPS IN FOOTBALL

Jackson, Hamilton, born vice-principal of an Ottawa high school, won the play-off-of-the-year and top Canadian player awards in the Canadian Football League for the way he led the Rough Riders into the Grey Cup championship game.

Ottawa was defeated for the championship 29-14 by Saskatchewan Roughriders, quarterbacked by Ron Lancaster, who got two third-place votes in the best-athlete balloting.

Below sixth place in the balloting, there were only scattered votes for a variety of athletes.

Tied at three points apiece were Moe Norman, Kitchener, Ont., golfer; George Athans Jr., Kelowna, B.C., water-skier; Gordie Howe, Detroit Red Wings; Gary Lafevre, Edmonton Eskimos, Western Football Conference rookie of the year; and Avellino Gomez, Toronto, jockey trying for the North American riding championship.

Bracketed at two points each were Fergie Jenkins, Chatham, Ont., pitcher with Chicago Cubs; Lancaster; Terry Evanshen, Calgary Stampede flanker; Jim Day, Toronto, equestrian.

Single third-place votes went to Crothers; Bobby Rousseau, Montreal Canadiens; Ron Northcott, Calgary, skip of the world championship curling rink; Bobby Orr, Boston Bruins defenseman; Ken Neilson, end with Winnipeg Blue Bombers; George Faulkner, Bishop's Falls, Nfld., scoring leader with the national hockey team.

Former Pitcher Files Lawsuit

NEW YORK (AP) — Allie Reynolds, former New York Yankee pitcher, filed suit in federal court Thursday against administrators of the baseball pension system, charging them with "whittling away" the rights of retired and older players.

Reynolds, who quit in 1954, asked for an injunction against an amendment voted on Dec. 1 and scheduled to go into effect next April 1. The charge would provide an increase of $125 a month for retired players who had 10 years in the majors, providing they were active after the 1957 season.

10-YEAR PLAYERS
Under the present pension plan, a 10-year player may begin drawing $250 a month for life at age 50. The amendment would increase this to $375 a month.

Reynolds, as a player with a major league career of 13 years, will be eligible for a pension of $383 a month at 65. A player, active after 1957 with a similar 13-year major league span, would get $808.

NOW A FLAT SUM

Soccer Panic Hurts 8

LIVERPOOL, England (AP)—Eight injured Liverpool soccer fans were in a hospital today after a panicky crush that felled scores of spectators watching their team get eliminated from the European Cup by Ajax of Amsterdam Wednesday night.

About 200 fans were slightly hurt and 31 were admitted to local hospitals with everything from cracked ribs to broken fingers after smoke bombs started the panic among the crowd of 54,000 at Liverpool's Anfield Road Stadium.

Police led more than 3,000 spectators from the ground for their own safety at the height of the crush. Dozens who had fainted were lifted over barriers from the terrace behind one of the goals.

Peter Robinson, secretary of the Liverpool Club, said some of the panic was caused by perspiration "rising in clouds of steam" from the crowd. Some fans thought the place was on fire.

"It may sound fantastic but we have had those clouds of steam at Liverpool before on big occasions," Robinson said.

Gilbey's disclose little tricks to improve your mixed gin drinks

Use these little tricks to improve your mixed gin drinks. But if it's taste that's troubling you—forget the tricks and change to Gilbey's London Dry. Its perfect balance gives you a fresh, clean-tasting drink.

Tricks with ice

If you need lots of ice for a party, start a few hours before the event. Make a batch of ice and then tip it out into a plastic bag. You can then keep the bag of ice in the bottom half of your refrigerator—the bag helps keep the ice well chilled. Make as many bags as you need.

Tricks with twists

To make a 'twist' of lemon begin with fresh lemon. See that the skin is clear and unblemished. With a razor-sharp knife pare off a strip of peel 1/8" wide. Take the strip of peel between your thumb and forefinger. Twist it so that a couple of drops go into your drink.

Hint: there's a special knife for paring twists. If you do a lot of twisting, it's worth getting.

You can rely on Gilbey's London Dry, a perfectly balanced gin that gives you a fresh, clean-tasting drink.

This gin is an international favourite, sold in 92 countries. It's been made by the Gilbey family for 109 years.

Surgeon Thrives on Untried

TORONTO (CP)—Trying the untried in the big world of medicine, Dr. William T. Mustard, 52, Toronto's world-renowned cardiovascular specialist, will be using a procedure he developed at the Hospital for Sick Children here in 1964.

Allyson is suffering from a transposition of the great blood vessels which reduces the blood supply and causes progressive thickening of the blood. Dr. Mustard's method involves re-directing the blood flow through an artificial baffle sewn inside the heart.

Only 22 when he graduated from the University of Toronto's medical school in 1937, Dr. Mustard, a boyish-faced, balding man, has a history of pioneering in surgical procedure. His first attempt at bold experiments came in 1944 on the Belgian battlefields of the Second World War when he used glass tubes to save the arteries of the blast-shattered legs of a Scottish officer and a New Brunswick soldier. It won him the British Empire Medal.

In a unique operation in 1952, he operated on a polo-stricken California boy, snipping one end of a good muscle in the boy's hip and stretching it around to the back. The method became known as the Mustard Procedure.

He was part of a Toronto team that used an artificial heart and a monkey's lung to keep babies alive during heart surgery.

Recently, Dr. Mustard performed an operation on a couple, whose hearts protruded outside their chests after they were separated. One twin died. The other is at home.

It was Dr. Mustard who, for the first time in Canada, used a pacemaker to save the lives of two Toronto boys by tuning their heartbeats to a special radio frequency. Dr. William Glenn of Yale University, developer of the pacemaker, allowed Dr. Mustard to use the device which was not then on the market.

Born in Clinton, Ont., he has a master of surgery degree from the University of Toronto and fellowships from the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons in Canada and the American College of Surgeons. He has two sons and five daughters.

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Security Council decided unanimously Thursday night to keep the UN peacekeeping force in Cyprus for at least another six months, until June 26, 1967.

The 15-member council accepted the request of Secretary-General U Thant, who said withdrawal of the force this month would almost certainly have resulted in a war between the Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

The UN force, sent to Cyprus in March, 1964, includes Canadian troops. Until the council acted Thursday, its mandate Turkey complained to the council that "arms and armored equipment are being secretly imported into the island from abroad under the ridiculous pretext of arming the Greek police."

Pension Extension Asked

OTTAWA (CPI) — The New Democratic Party moved formally Thursday night to extend the government's planned supplementary payments to all old age pensioners instead of only those in need.

An amendment by Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre) would also extend the supplementary payments indefinitely instead of permitting them to lapse when the Canada Pension Plan comes into full effect.

It came on the sixth day of debate on the supplementary pensions as the Commons sat overtime and the government complained of opposition filibustering.

The House sat one hour overtime and planned to return to the pensions bill today — with the possibility that the debate might be interrupted by emergency legislation to block the scheduled strike Tuesday of air traffic controllers.

The government planned to introduce the legislation before the end of the day if negotiations failed to produce an agreement.

The government pensions measure is designed to pay a supplement of up to $30 a month, in addition to the present basic $75 payment, to pensioners with little or no outside income.

Mr. Knowles' amendment, which would make the $30 supplementary payment a permanent feature rather than an interim measure until the Canada Pension Plan takes full effect, was protested by Health Minister MacEachen but finally ruled in order.

Mr. Knowles said the interim arrangement for the supplementary payments above the basic $75 old age pension was unfair because it restricted payment to those born on or before Dec. 31, 1910.

His amendment removes the qualifying date and makes it apply to all persons who receive the pension, even after the Canada Pension Plan is in effect with full payments.

NDP Leader Douglas said the amendment was needed to ensure that thousands of Canadians were not precluded from receiving benefits because of their birth dates.

Frank Howard (NDP — Skeena) and Raymond Langis (Creditiste — Megantic) objected but under Commons rules the motion was passed when less than 10 MPs objected.

Test Craft Going Down

VANCOUVER (CPI) — Mac Thompson, 39, co-owner, operator and designer of an underwater research craft, says he will attempt a dive of 2,500 feet early next week. The 16-foot craft was to have attempted the dive Dec. 6 but a cracked motor housing delayed plans.

Italians End News Strike

ROME (UPI) — Italian newsmen went back to work Thursday night after a 24-hour strike which left most of the country without morning or afternoon newspapers.

The Rome morning newspapers Il Messaggero and Il Tempo and the afternoon paper Il Giornale D'Italia were among the few that managed to publish despite the strike.

Buttle Decision Held

VANCOUVER (CPI) — The B.C. Court of Appeal reserved decision Thursday on Campbell River water district's appeal against a Supreme Court ruling which upheld the right of B.C. Pollution Control Board to give Western Mines a permit to dump waste into Buttle Lake.

Campbell River gets its drinking water from Buttle Lake.

The Campbell River Water District was appealing a decision by Mr. Justice Dryer in which he held the Pollution Control Board was acting within its powers when it did not grant the Campbell River Water District a hearing.

The Campbell River Water District claimed it was entitled to be heard by the board in opposition to the granting of the permit.

in more ways than one.

In our 69th year — again we've improved on the year before. It's a standard we expect to maintain. We work hard to do it.

But the "facts and figures" aspect is only one reason why we say 1966 was good.

Our "bouquet file" is another. It's a collection of letters from our clients across Canada telling us how much our efforts were appreciated.

They weren't necessary (after all that's our business) but they were nice.

At National Trust we're equally proud of all our 'dividends'. The ones we give and the ones we get. And when you come to think of it, perhaps it's one of the main reasons why we've had such a good year.

Purse-Snatching Guilt Admitted by Three

Three Alberta men pleaded guilty to theft Thursday in central magistrate's court, ending a two-day spree of purse-snatching in Victoria and Saanich.

The trio — Ronald Williams, 19, of Medicine Hat, Stanley Smith, 20, of Calgary, and Warren Smith, 18, of Okotoks — were picked up Wednesday by Saanich Constable Jim White on a road check of a vehicle similar to the one described by one of the victims.

Williams and the elder Smith pleaded guilty to one count of theft over $50, three of theft under $50 and one of attempted theft, and the younger Smith pleaded guilty to theft under $50.

RICHEST HAUL

The richest haul was the first — $300 in jewelry taken from a Victoria woman Monday. The woman's purse and a diamond-studded watch have not been recovered.

Four other snatches, one of them unsuccessful, netted a total of $17. One of the purses, but none of the money, has been recovered. The thefts were executed Monday and Tuesday.

A juvenile, also from Alberta, was scheduled to appear in juvenile court.

John William Robinson of 113 Helmcken pleaded guilty to the Apr. 27 theft of tools from Henry Elliott's garage at 17 Eaton.

Robinson and another youth, Harry Cook of 2751 Spencer, were arrested on the theft by Oakwood RCMP after investigation on another matter turned up the stolen tools in Cook's car. Cook pleaded guilty Wednesday.

Both will be sentenced Dec. 22.

Douglas Semenick of 2008 Fernwood was fined $50, placed on his own recognizance for six months on $100 bond and ordered to surrender his licence plates, for attempted theft.

Semenick, who is on social welfare and was trying to steal gasoline from another car resulting in the charge, was indignant about the licence suspension.

"How do I get to work?" he asked, referring to a job he planned to start the same day.

"Perhaps you haven't heard of bicycles?" was Magistrate William Ostler's rejoinder.

Ronald Robert Forrest of Prince George pleaded guilty to one charge of theft and three of breaking and entering dating back to May 7, 1964.

Forrest stole $180 worth of goods from British Importers and Karin's confectionery and returned shoeless to British Importers the following night to obtain footwear when he was caught.

The court was told he had been in Riverview Hospital at Escondido since his arrest.

He was remanded to Dec. 28 for sentence.

William Ernest Maluish of Nanaimo was given a suspended sentence for his part in the Dec. 5 robbery of the O.K. Tire store on Douglas.

He was released on his own recognizance for three years on a bond of $250 and his driver's licence suspended for six months.

John T. Lyons, 17, of 1039 Jenkins, described by Magistrate Ostler as "at 17, a seasoned car thief," was sentenced to one year definite and six months indefinite in the Young Offenders' Unit on each of five counts, sentences to run concurrently.

A second youth, charged with Lyons, was remanded to Dec. 28 for sentence.

Magistrate Ostler said Lyons, whose car theft record dates back three years, needed the "pretty deep counselling" he would get in the Young Offenders' Unit.

Lawrence R. Jones, 20, of 513 West Burnside, was fined $35 for being a minor in possession of liquor.

Evidence showed he had been in an accident at the Trans-Canada Highway and Tillicum Nov. 1 and had thrown a half-case of beer into the ditch when officers arrived on the scene.

"Somebody is going to fill you in one of these days," Magistrate Ostler warned 18-year-old David W. Scudmore of 812 Elrick Place, after he pleaded guilty to common assault.

Scudmore said he and his girl friend had had a fight and he had been upset enough to throw a young boy on the ground on Anson Street and kick him, when he thought he had been called a name.

He was remanded to Dec. 28 for sentence.

Donald Curry, 22, of 824 Toimie, was fined $50 for obstructing a police officer after Magistrate Ostler found him guilty.

Curry was arrested Nov. 24 by RCMP Constable Richard F. Lee after he was found with an empty beer bottle in his hand, standing beside a car Constable Lee was checking.

Constable Lee said he had stopped the car for a check and had noticed two part-empty beer bottles tumble from the car.

The RCMP constable said he set the bottles on the trunk of the stopped car, and a few seconds later Curry had one of the bottles, empty, in his hand.

Steven Anthony Wragg of 3750 Casey Drive was fined $50 each on two charges of common assault and had sentence suspended on a wilful damage charge. He was placed on his own recognizance in a $250 bond for six months.

Wragg was charged with assaulting Lionel Crossley and Ralph Hopkins in Crossley's home at 175 Helmcken, and damaging property in the home.

Three men were sentenced on separate impaired driving charges to pay a fine of $300 each and have their driving licences suspended for four months: Joginder Singh of 2808 Nainaimo, Georges Guy Glass of 838 Craigflower, and Allan George Pannell of 714 Selkirk.

Chemical Treatment Cures Some Cancer

LONDON (AP)—A British scientist said Thursday chemical treatments can cure certain types of human cancer in a proportion of cases.

The claim was advanced by Sir Alexander Maddow, director of the Chester Beatty Research Institute. He told a press conference, "over the last year we have for the first time applied chemical treatments which can completely cure two types of human cancer in a proportion of cases."

War-Oriented Russian Budget Sets Record

MOSCOW (CP) — Russia announced Thursday a post-war on American "aggression" and record defence budget, more than eight per cent higher than the Vietnam war.

total 14,500,000,000 rubles (about $15,950,000,000) or 13.2 per cent of the national budget.

Defence has not formed such a high proportion of the budget since 1954, and although the 1967 figure is a record in terms of rubles, past budgets have devoted a much higher proportion of the total to defence.

TO PARLIAMENT

Presenting the budget to the Supreme Soviet (parliament), Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov said Russia was compelled to act because the aggressive acts of the U.S. imperialists had aggravated the world situation and increased the danger of a new war.

The 8.2-per-cent rise in defence spending also comes amid mounting Sino-Soviet tension and reports that military reinforcements have been sent to the Soviet Union's long border with China.

NO COMPARISON

Such a sum is more than half the $130,200,000,000 appropriated for the whole U.S. government in the current fiscal year, but American officials say that there is no real comparison between Washington and Moscow figures in the defence area.

One factor is the known Soviet practice of concealing actual defence operations under other headings. Another is the U.S. practice of appropriating at once the total cost of long lead projects—an aircraft carrier, for example—for which only a small fraction to be laid out in the current year.

ANALYST BELIEF

Western analysts believe the actual Soviet defence spending is far higher, perhaps twice as much as the announced figure. They say the other half is hidden in other budget items.

Garbuzov promised continuing Soviet assistance to Vietnamese Communists and said the 1,100,000,000 ruble (about $1,220,000,000) rise in defence spending would help to strengthen Soviet defences.

TOTAL REVENUE
The 1967 budget provides for total revenues of 110,100,000,000 rubles.

most of which will come from state enterprises, and expenditures of 109,900,000,000 rubles (about $120,890,000,000) — both record figures.

This is the second year running that Russia has increased 1965.

defence spending after two years of cuts. The 1966 military estimate was 13,400,000,000 rubles ($14,740,000,000), 12.8 per cent of the total budget, and 800,000,000 rubles (about $860,000,000) more than in 1965.

Former Mayor Put to Shame

PEKING (Reuters) — The once-powerful mayor of Peking, Peng Chen, was presented Monday to a huge crowd of Red Guards and others at Workers Stadium here as a leader of a "revisionist clique."

Observers said the reports suggested that Peng had to stand with bowed head while crowds shouted accusations against him.

"STRUGGLE"
They said the meeting decided to "struggle against the leaders of a revisionist clique" whom they named as Peng, Lu Ting-yl, former minister of culture and party propaganda chief, and Lu Jui-ching, former army chief of staff.

The meeting was addressed by Wu Teh, acting mayor of Peking since Peng's dismissal became known in June, and Chou Jung-hsin, secretary-general of the state council.

Peng's more important post, as head of the Peking municipal Communist party committee, was taken over by Li Hsiang-feng who has also come under virulent criticism since then from the Red Guards. Wu Teh said that Peng had for many years plotted against the Communist party, and party members were determined to struggle to the end against revisionist elements inside the party.

The next speaker, a Red Guard, said: "There are still revisionist elements in our party. If these people do not change their ways, they will suffer the same political fate as Peng Chen."

Companies Wanted Government Out of Insurance

VANCOUVER (CP)—The insurance industry did not want the government to enter the insurance field so it took over operation of the Traffic Victims Indemnity Fund in 1961, a fund spokesman said Thursday.

"Government operation of the service meant a gathering of funds into their hands therefore the industries offered to start the present Traffic Victims Indemnity Fund," director Ken V. Malthouse told the royal

THEIR FUND
B.C.'s insurance companies now finance and operate the fund under government regulation.

In earlier testimony, Mr. Malthouse disagreed with Mr. Rae's contention that a system of compulsory automobile insurance in B.C. would eliminate much of the fund's work and would be in the interest of public safety.

FORCES MOVE
He said the fund forces uninsured drivers to insure themselves and therefore prove financial responsibility.

He told the commission counsel it would be impossible to enforce compulsory insurance.

"There is always a 50 per cent disobedience factor on the part of the public," he said. "You cannot put a policeman in every car."

Plane Hits Desert Bus, 25 Killed

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—An Iraqi Air Force training plane crashed into a trans-desert bus near the Iraq-Syria frontier Wednesday, killing all 24 passengers on the bus and the pilot of the plane, Baghdad radio reported Thursday.

The broadcast said the crash occurred inside Iraqi territory 44 miles from an Iraqi Petroleum Co. desert station.

The bus driver and his assistant escaped with minor injuries.

All the glitter . . . wide-eyed wonder . . . merriment of the Christmas season opens for you when you walk through the door. Special attractions . . . decorations . . . a feeling of joy in the air. Come down and see!

Visit with Santa

Visit with Santa in his cosy Palace on the Second Floor of the Home Furnishings Building. He's there every day, Monday to Friday, 10 to 12 noon, 2 to 4 p.m. and 6:30 to 8:30, and Saturday, 10 to 12 noon and 1:30 to 4:30. He's waiting to hear all the things you'd like for Christmas. We'll snap your picture so you can have a colour keepsake of your visit.

Santa's Palace, Second Floor, Home Furnishings Building

Magic Carpet Ride

Right next door to Santa's Palace . . . the Magic Carpet Ride . . . a fun-filled flight into fantasyland. Youngsters perch high on a sultan's cushion and ride round and about a winter land filled with playful polar bears, animated Eskimos, crisp, deep snowbanks and glittering trees.

Per ride, 10¢.

Back by Popular Demand Robert Wood

Distinguished Canadian Artist—See Him Painting in Eaton's Picture Department
Dec. 16th to 24th

You'll recognize his works . . . Mr. Wood's appreciation of the solitude of nature is an unmistakable characteristic of his paintings . . . from a fishing village on the East Coast to lofty fjords of the B.C. coastline he captures nature with sensitivity. Robert Wood was born in Toronto and studied at the Ontario College of Fine Arts, Brighton School of Fine Arts, and has just completed a coast-to-coast tour of exhibits and lectures. Meet the man and his works . . .

Monday to Saturday,
December 16th to 24th

In Care Centre

Children Selected For Best Results

A precocious boy of eight was arrested in Victoria on a drunk and disorderly charge. On his first day in a school for emotionally disturbed children, he persuaded three of a small group of seven children to run away. The presence of children like that is the reason Dr. Charles Gregory, former provincial psychiatrist, and now founding a school for emotionally disturbed children on Old West Saanich Road, only takes new children into his group — one, or at most two, at a time.

He told a meeting of the Victoria Association for Mentally Disturbed Children at Spencer House Thursday that the boy did not just steal the drink he used.

He had a copy made of the key to his parents' wine cupboard and hid it for several days before he used it — and arrived at school drunk.

Dr. Gregory announced he had formed a limited company.

the Island Child Development and Research Centre.

At present there is one building on the property on West Saanich Road, which can house up to 12 children.

There are seven children there, all under 12 years of age, but he hopes to add one or two more by the weekend.

He pointed out that it would be impossible to add more than one or two carefully selected children to the group at a time.

FACILITIES THERE
The school will be for emotionally disturbed children only, as there are facilities in Victoria for retarded children — "inadequate as they are, there are facilities," he said.

He aims to have a staff ratio of better than one to one. As soon as possible he will be building cottages on the property, and will ultimately have 40 beds.

THREE WAYS
"There were three ways of getting started on this," he said. "We could have a government establishment, which means you wait, and wait, and wait, and keep on waiting; we could have a board of directors, with me bludgeoning them to do as I want and them treating me the same way, which amounts to waiting, or do as I did, and form a company."

SOME SAY
Local citizens should have some say in the building of the provincial government's new Wilkinson Road mental health complex, he said.

"I don't know what effect that monstrosity is going to have on the community at large, but it is too bad it is going up without any consultation with the community."

WITH SCHOOLS
Dr. Gregory said the views of the community at large should be sought, so that the best way of relating the school, staff and children to the community could be found. It should also be integrated with the school system.

"I had a long session with Health Minister Eric Martin to try to persuade him that it would be a good thing if the local citizens had some say," said Dr. Gregory.

"There is no indication that this will be done, either before or even after the building is completed."

Library Should Be Fine Between Bread, Wine

"A book of verses underneath the bough
A loaf of bread, a jug of wine and thou . . ."
Sooke will soon have all the ingredients of Omar Khayyam's poetic paradise, all in a row.
Its library will be moving across the main street, between the government liquor store and a bakery.

Elderly Man Hit by Car

An 80-year-old pedestrian was in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital after being hit by a car Thursday at Colquhoun and Saanich Road.

Saanich police said Henry Sewly, 886 Darwin, was struck by a car driven by Herbert Beard, 3520 Savannah.

When HMCS Qu'Appelle goes through her annual refit she may be tied up alongside longer than expected, following an engine run-up in the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

An armed forces spokesman said she developed a vibration in one of her turbines while undergoing pre-refit run-ups.

The damage will not be known until the engine is thoroughly examined.

The navy said there was a vibration and this was cause for further examination.

Fight for 1967

Centenary Is the Year His Number Comes Up

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

A Vancouver dry cleaner has a fight on his hands for licence plate No. 1967.

Norman Chan of 4713 Fairlawn Street, Burnaby, had held that number for the past "five or six years" and hopes to have it when it really means something.

But some people have been suggesting number 1967 should be used for publicity purposes during Canada's Centenary of Confederation — which will be the next centenary that B.C. celebrates.

Motor Vehicle Superintendent Ray Hadfield said Thursday that despite pressure from some unnamed sources, he intends to maintain the branch's established policy by reserving plates 1967 for Mr. Chan.

Mr. Chan's application, now in the mail, will be one of about 15,000 expected to be sent in during the next 15 months for a special category of reserved licence plates numbered 3000 and under.

The first 3,000 plates are traditionally set aside here for sale to British Columbians who want a particular number. Deadline is Jan. 31, and the branch usually has to screen about 10 applications for each of the numbers.

But don't bother asking for licence plate No. 1. This is always retained in the Motor Vehicle Branch on Menzies Street.

George Cowderoy, 2216 Arbutus Road, had licence plate No. 2 this year, according to motor vehicle records, and some people have held their lucky low numbers for many consecutive years.

B.C.'s new plates, red on white in commemoration of the centenary of confederation, will go on sale on Jan. 3.

"I would guess we will issue about 850,000 licences in 1967, and about 80,000 of them will be sold in Greater Victoria," said Mr. Hadfield.

The province of Quebec will have similarly colored plates, although the numerals on their plates will have a slightly darker red than British Columbia's numerals.

$2,000,000 Urban Project

Papers Ready to Sign

The city's largest urban renewal project, the $2,000,000 Rose-Blanchard-Hillside revitalization plan, moved closer to implementation Thursday when the city council agreed to sign the papers had arrived for signature.

The other $1,000,000 will be shared equally by the provincial government and the city.

At a meeting of city council,

Mayor Hugh Stephen, presiding at his first meeting of city council and the final meeting of 1966, said the moment was "historic" for the city.

He wanted that work would probably go at a faster pace than envisaged by the contract deadlines. For example, the papers gave the city until December, 1968, to have a new site ready for the new North Ward School. In reality, it will be ready by the summer of 1967.

MASSIVE PROJECT
The massive project will see demolition of more than 127 substandard homes and six commercial buildings which will be replaced with a public housing project, private residential areas, open park areas, the new elementary school and a network of rebuilt roads.

PERTH
Mr. Perth said his reason for leaving Victoria was the increase in salary and that the position would provide more opportunity.

"We received his resignation with regret," said Mr. Morgan. "He did a good job for the city."

He emphasized that the resignation wasn't made under protest or fire. "He wants to get ahead and he's going to a better job," he said.

Mr. Morgan said Mr. Perth's resignation did not take effect until the end of February, allowing ample time to look for a replacement.

"A replacement will be chosen through the city personnel department," he said.

Three capital region members of the legislature pledged their support Thursday for construction of a regional vocational school in Victoria.

The MLAs spoke at a special meeting called by four lower Island school boards to speed a start on the long-promised vocational school.

Backing the project are Saanich Social Credit MLA John Tisdale, Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane and Esquimalt-Sorcery Herbert Bruch.

Victoria Schools Board Skellings and Works Minister Chant also were invited but did not attend the meeting in Craigdarroch Castle, headquarters of the Greater Victoria school district.

Trustees have become increasingly concerned over the government's failure to begin the project. Nearly a year ago it was announced that construction would start early in 1967.

Since then a land acquisition problem on the site at Burnside and Tillicum has been blamed for delay.

Greater Victoria trustee Peter Bunn presented a survey showing that 846 capital region students in Grades 11 and 12 would attend a vocational school if there were one here.

All Grade 11 and 12 students were polled on their plans prior to Thursday's meeting. Of the 3,986 total, 666 said they plan to go to work after graduation; 1,688 said they plan to attend university; 796 had no plans, and the remainder would like to attend a vocational school.

Mr. Bunn suggested that many of the undecided and some of the university-bound would likely choose the vocational route if a school were in existence.

"The need for the school is readily apparent," said Mr. Bunn. "We are very concerned."

John Bartanus, chairman of the Sooke school board, said nearly 70 per cent of the district's senior students are in non-academic programs.

'No Place to Go'
"Many of them will have no place to go after graduation," he said.

Mr. Bartanus noted that B.C. has spent only $12 per capita for vocational education under the current federal-provincial cost-sharing deal. The Canadian average is $22, and Ontario has spent $44, he said.

George Curran, a Greater Victoria trustee, said: "Our students are losing out on jobs because other areas have schools to train their young people."

Mr. Macfarlane, saying he was "shocked" and "disappointed" that nothing has been done, called on his fellow MLAs to join in working for the schools.

Both Mr. Tisdale and Mr. Bruch said they would like to see the schools built as soon as possible.

A short, sharp exchange between Mr. Bruch and Mr. Bunn interrupted the generally smooth tenor of the meeting. Mr. Bunn, warming up as he described the plight of teen-agers unable to get higher vocational training, said:

"I don't see how you (MLAs) can live with yourselves."

Mr. Bruch broke in: "If we're going to discuss it in this way, then count me out." Later he added: "I hope this isn't a bear-pit proposition."

Mr. Bunn said: "We've had sincerity until it's running out of our ears. I'm ashamed when parents ask me two or three times a week what to their children are going to do."

Mr. Macfarlane suggested that the first thing to work for is settlement of the land re-zoning problem in Saanich that has delayed assembly at the site.

Crowding Expected
There are 122 students taking trade training in Victoria and new accommodation for about 120 more will open next spring, according to Frederick Dunford, principal of the B.C. Vocational School here.

Mr. Dunford said there is a waiting list for some of the eight subjects taught at three temporary locations around the city.

The vocational school here has no permanent home. Subjects are taught in the Windermere Building at 716 Courtney, at 233 Menzies, and in a warehouse on Alpha Terrace.

ADDED BRANCH
Next April the school will establish another temporary branch on the top floor of the Begg Building at Yates and Quadra.

Here are the courses given and the number of students: At Alpha Terrace — oil burner maintenance, 10 students.

At 233 Menzies — practical nursing, 16 students; commercial brush-up, 16 students; basic training for skill development, 32 students.

At 716 Courtney — commercial secretarial, 16 students; commercial-clerical-bookkeeping, 16 students (room for 22); parts gardeners, 16 part-time evening students.

Existing facilities can accommodate about 130 students, said Mr. Dunford.

When the Begg Building annex opens, it will give courses in electronics, office machine repair and computer programming. Commercial courses will also be moved to the Begg Building and two new drafting courses will be given at 716 Courtney.

"I don't expect we'll be squeezed for space in the first year after occupying the Begg Building," Mr. Dunford said. "But after that, as we get known, we'll be crowded again."

MUST CATCH ON
The principal observed that demand for vocational training tends to build up after a new school becomes known.

"If you built a school here for several hundred people, you would fill it in no time at all," he said. "But it has to catch on first."

"The experience of other centres such as Nelson and Kelowna indicates that when you build a school of this kind you have no trouble filling it."

Give Mother Set of Drums for Christmas

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — Mothers with nerves that as a violin string need drums for Christmas.

That's right, drums. To each mother — her own personal set of drums.

The mother, entertainer, recording artist, movie star, business woman who said that is Edie Adams. Nothing beats hitting the drums as a tension reliever, she says.

"The coolest man I ever met," she said in an interview, "was a professor of philosophy from Ohio who drummed for fun several times a week. He claimed it helped restore one to the human race."

"Through the years I've observed that what he maintained seems true."

Miss Adams, of Hollywood and New York, sometimes can't contain herself when she gets near drums. Take what happened recently when she was in

The Jets, a band from Western High School, supplied the music, strutting about a shopping centre mall with Miss Adams.

So what happens? At one point Miss Adams joined the Jets and rat-tat-tatted with the drum sticks.

Miss Adams, widowed when Ernie Kovacs died, now is married to Marty Mulls — a bachelor in the music business until he married the amateur drummer girl.

Recently, while Miss Adams was making a movie with Rex Harrison, the star needed some special pictures.

"Marty bought a camera," she said, "and took the pictures. They turned out so well that he's now the newest professional photographer."

"He's growing famous for passing out wallet-size pictures to his friends."

Miss Adams said the "wallet size" is about the size of a typewriter table. "Maybe he means them for Texas wallets," she said.

Miss Adams, already the country's most famous cigar saleswoman, featured in television commercials, spoke then about her newest business connection — cut and curl, a pop-in, pop-out, no appointment beauty workshop springing up nationwide.

The quickie, low-price beauty chain had its start in New York. Miss Adams got interested because she feels in this gogo era, women don't want to spend a lot of time getting their locks curled.

Elizabeth Arden and Helena Rubenstein started small and wound up being the grand dames of the beauty world. Miss Adams hasn't put a lid on her ambitions in that field.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: A woman in our card club is one of the dearest people I know. I wouldn't hurt her feelings for the world but she has mice in her house. Yesterday a little grey mouse ran across my feet during the card game and I thought I'd pass out. I managed to keep the discovery to myself but I was so nervous I lost $4.00. When the refreshments were served I couldn't eat a thing.

Should I tell her or would it be wise to send her a mouse trap anonymously? — DILLY OF A DILEMMA

Dear Dilly: Say nothing, and don't send any anonymous gifts. Sooner or later someone in the family will learn that they have unwitting guests running around and something will be done about it.

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to address this letter to a Veteran of Domestic Wars. The poor little guy who is unable to give his wife sufficient attention because her timing is so bad. Imagine! He comes from work and she tells him the washing machine broke and it means a repair bill; or one of the kids needs dental braces and it will cost $60.

When does he consider the time right for such news? Or maybe she shouldn't bother him at all. She COULD tell the mailman or the lady next door, but I don't think they would come up with the money.

Does "Vet" believe his wife should wait until the first thing in the morning? No. That would ruin his whole day. Should she call him at work right after lunch? He'd hate that.

I say—a wife's best bet is before dinner. She must catch him while he is still awake and before he grabs the newspaper and turns on the TV.

If "Vet" would write and tell us wives when is the best time to ask a husband for extra money without rendering him impotent I would be grateful. — JUST ME

Dear Me: If Vet sees this I hope he will respond because this is a question that only a husband can answer.

Dear Ann Landers: That was a wonderfully wise letter from the woman who said we must not forget how important it is for parents to show their children they are loved.

My sister and I both suffered from emotional problems because we felt rejected. Our mother was angry with us most of the time. We seldom received a smile or a word of encouragement. Now, many years later I know why she was cold and incommunicative.

Like so many other women, the husband paid no attention to her. She hungered for his love and approval and she never got it. I am reminded of something I read in your column, "The greatest gift a father can give his children is to love their mother." — NOW I KNOW WHY

Dear Friend: It's unfortunate that the insight to your mother's sad life didn't come earlier. It could have saved you some grief.

Children who are ignored or treated coldly often feel that they are inadequate — that something is wrong with THEM. How sad that they never learn the truth — that the real inadequacy lies with one parent or both.

Improved Conduct Beneficial

MONTREAL (CP)—Two bank employees who admitted being accessories in a $400,000 armed holdup a year ago received suspended sentences Thursday.
Roger Leclerc, 25, and Claude Majeau, 27, were employed by a Provincial Bank of Canada branch in suburban Laval that was held up by four masked gunmen Dec. 18, 1965. They admitted providing the keys with which the bandits entered the bank.
Judge Marcel Gaboury noted in his judgment, however, that both the accused had made restitution of their $3,000 share of the loot; they had already spent six months in custody; they had co-operated with police; and neither had any previous criminal record.
Judge Gaboury had Leclerc and Majeau sign personal bonds of $350 each to keep the peace for the next two years.

Motors Win School Prize

Colquitz Choir In Concert

A Christmas Concert by the 100-voice Colquitz Junior High School choir will be heard by children of the Protestant Orphanage Friday.

In addition to singing Christmas carols, choir members will present each of the children with individually wrapped packages of candy. Last Wednesday the choir entertained residents of Mission Sunset Lodge.

Students will be taking part in the school's annual Christmas concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Rate Study Shared By Bonner

Attorney-General Bonner plans to fly to Ottawa this weekend to attend a federal-provincial conference to study the need for regulation of interest rates and consumer credit.

He said Thursday he was in favor of full disclosure of interest rates and details of contract sales, and the development of a national code by passage of legislation at both the federal and provincial levels.

Mr. Bonner said that while he is in Ottawa he will be an observer at a finance ministers' conference which will be attended by Premier Bennett.

Monument: Happiest Place

Disneyland Aim Joy, Inspiration

By JERRY COHEN
The Los Angeles Times

A writer called it the "world's biggest toy" — an enchantment created, ruled over and cherished by the "world's biggest boy."

Nikita Khrushchev stormed when forbidden to visit it. With good reason — presidents and princes who toured it went away captivated.

It became the world's most celebrated tourist attraction and helped turn an obscure little town, Anaheim, into a big league city.

Millions visit it annually.

All in One

"It may be just another amusement park," said an American father, "but to my kids it's the Taj Mahal, Niagara Falls and Sherwood Forest all rolled into one."

The man who built it described it simply as "the world's happiest place." Few would argue.

And Disneyland will survive as an enduring monument to the genius of its creator — Walt Disney, the man who died Thursday.

"All who come to this happy place — welcome," he said in 1955 when the park opened.

Understatement

"Disneyland will continue to grow, to add new things, as long as there is imagination left in this world."

His prophecy was an understatement. For the next 11 years, the Disney imagination worked overtime making Disneyland, as he wished it, "a source of joy and inspiration to all."

It didn't just happen. Walt Disney made it happen.

He originally conceived Disneyland as a $5,000,000 venture, inhabited by the creations of his fancy — Mickey Mouse, Snow White, Donald Duck.

Raised Sights

But when scores of American firms expressed an interest in developing concessions and promotions at Disneyland, he and his business partner, Roy O. Disney, raised their sights.

When 30,000 persons crowded

Disneyland for the July 18, 1955, dedication, it had ballooned into a $17,500,000 investment — but only after Walt Disney borrowed $250,000 on his insurance policies to get the show on the road.

Disneyland opened with 22 major attractions and Anaheim had one 60-room hotel 11 years ago.

Yearly Outlay

Today, the investment in Disneyland is more than $75,000,000, and the major attractions number more than 50. Within a five-mile radius of Anaheim are 125 hotels and motels.

Walt Disney, who once borrowed $250,000 ended up spending more than $1,000,000 annually just for live entertainment at the park, a 60-acre playground 25 miles south of Los Angeles.

It is a place where, as one man put it, "the past melts with the future" — Frontierland blends into Tomorrowland and Tomorrowland into Fantasyland.

It is a wonder-world of spaceships and riverboats, mechanical monkeys and moated castles, make-believe jungles and wilderness forests.

"By the time Walt gets through," an associate remarked a few years ago, "this not only will be the seventh wonder of the world — but the eighth, ninth and tenth as well."

Walt Disney's earlier prophecy concerning his attraction came true ... as do all expectations of visitors at Disneyland.

Police Fuss Coming Under New Mayor

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tom Campbell, a brush 39-year-old real estate developer with a flair for controversy, won the mayoralty of Canada's third largest city by a razor-thin margin Thursday.

Mr. Campbell, a fast-talking millionaire whom pollsters underestimated, defeated incumbent William Rathie by little more than 1,200 votes in Wednesday's civic election.

CLOSE RACE

He pulled 41,073 votes to Mayor Rathie's 39,843 in one of the closest election battles in the city's history.

Socialist candidate Jean Rankin, the only other mayoralty candidate, drew 6,534 votes — also a big surprise to election experts, who estimated the 21-year-old magazine editor had little hope of reaching the 1,000 mark.

Mr. Campbell said he is "going to try and be one of Vancouver's better mayors."

FUSS COMING

Mr. Campbell also promised to stir up a fuss by releasing a confidential report prepared last year by lawyer George Murray on alleged criminal activities by some Vancouver police officers.

Mr. Rathie kept the lid on the report, claiming it dealt with purely internal matters and disclosures from it could damage police efficiency and morale.

Mr. Murray was called upon to make the investigation following the robbery of $1,200,000 in mutilated money bound for Ottawa to be destroyed, the shooting deaths of Constable Leonard Hogue and his family and suspected bank robberies by some police officers.

Campbell

"If I think there is anything in it the public should know, I will release it to the press," he said.

TAKING CHANCE

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Mr. Campbell may be taking a chance if he tries to release the report.

There may be some legal implications involved, as well as the fact that the report was addressed only to the Vancouver police commission.

In the race for 10 aldermanic seats, the only surprise was the election of lawyer Harry Rankin, a far-left candidate who tried unsuccessfully five times previously. There were 29 candidates for the 10 seats.

THE ALDERMEN

Incumbent aldermen elected, in order of plurality, were Hugh Baird, Halford Wilson, Earle Adams, Ernie Broome, Reg Atherton and Tom Alsbury.

New aldermen winning seats, in order, were Mr. Rankin, Marianne Linell, Peter Graham and Edward Sweeney.

U.S. Navy Delay

New Anti-Sub Planes Pigeon-Holed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. defence department has ordered the navy to take a further look at its ambitious multi-billion-dollar program to supply new planes for its anti-submarine warfare fleet.

sources said Thursday.

THE STEP MEANS

The step means that the navy's acquisition of a new anti-submarine warfare plane — first authorized in 1963 — may be delayed until 1974.

Navy officials, leery of the growing Soviet submarine fleet, had hoped at one time to begin

THE NAVY NOW HAS

eight anti-submarine aircraft carriers, each equipped with about 20 S-2S and 16 helicopters. This group is faced with the job of keeping watch over the 380 submarines estimated to make up the Soviet Union's fleet.

That estimate was issued earlier this week by Jane's Fighting Ships, the accepted authority on the world's navies, in its report for 1966-67. Forty of its submarines are nuclear-powered, the authorities said.

ABOUT 30 TO 40

Soviet submarines are believed to be equipped with nuclear missiles.

The navy specifically wanted defence department permission to move next year from the current phase of planning known as concept formulation to contract definition, the step just before actual procurement from the aircraft industry.

"We hoped next year we'd be able to go full steam ahead," one navy officer said. "We think we should have it as soon as possible."

Sympathy Strike

Teamster Boss Demands Return to Work

DETROIT (AP) — Striking teamsters, demonstrating against a U.S. Supreme Court decision that could send him to prison for eight years, were ordered Thursday by their international president, James R. Hoffa, to return to their jobs quickly.

"Don't take the law in your own hands or you are going to hurt me," Hoffa told some 1,200 cheering teamsters, summoned hastily to a "back-to-work" meeting. Hoffa flew to Detroit from Chicago to address the meeting.

A 24-hour wildcat walkout to protest the court's confirmation of Hoffa's 1964 jury tampering conviction developed spontaneously Wednesday night at a meeting of his home local, No. 280.

SPREAD QUICKLY

Effective at midnight Wednesday night, it quickly spread to other locals, comprising a total membership of some 70,000.

Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh had appealed by telephone and telegraph to Hoffa to intercede, saying a 24-hour tieup of trucking would cripple this metropolitan industrial area of 3,700,000 persons.

Many short-trip drivers of bakery, laundry, food chain and such vehicles reported on schedule, but some later left their routes for Hoffa's meeting.

LOADING DELAYED

Mostly long-distance drivers were affected. Dockmen, who also are teamsters union members, normally begin loading after midnight, and there was doubt many trucks would be ready to roll again before midnight Thursday night — or 24 hours after the strike began.

"You took this action out of the emotions of your hearts," Hoffa said. The action would be publicized by newspapers and television as "your defying the courts."

Hoffa

"I still have respect for the courts," he added, and later told a press conference: "Democracy ultimately will win out and the courts ultimately will recognize this as not a fair trial."

CAREER REVIEWED

The 53-year-old Hoffa spoke for an hour and 40 minutes, reviewing his 37-year career as a teamster. He started in Detroit when he was 16 and organized workers on a grocery dock into what eventually became local 280.

"In the name of Jimmy Hoffa return to work as quickly as possible," he said at the end. "Don't even take a vote. Just go back. Thanks and please return to work."

Hoffa said he planned to ask for a Supreme Court rehearing and hoped to delay his entering prison, if he must, until after completion of national contract bargaining which is scheduled to begin in Washington, D.C., Jan. 17.

Car Insurance Rates

Boost-Born Hearing Continues

By RAY KERR

The current royal commission inquiry was called by Premier Bennett following public demand spurred by three car insurance premium boosts within a single year.

New premium announcements last week brought good news to the Victoria area, where rates are down nine per cent. But areas are dealt with individually, and other regions face increases.

After a mild opening May 4 here, the commission moved to Vancouver, where it's still sitting. But it was at the opening that B.C.'s 209 insurance companies made their strongest submission.

Of the 32 briefs filed by the June 10 deadline with the commission, only four were from backers of government-organized car insurance. The B.C. Federation of Labor, the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, the New Democratic Party and a dark-horse entry from the Farmers' Institute were the only submissions seriously critical of private auto insurance.

Cheaper Scheme

Key man for the industry is Douglas McKay Brown, QC, acting for the All Canada Insurance Federation, representing all but 33 of B.C.'s 209 companies.

Main foundation of the union

'New Era' Dampened

Town in Maritimes Likely to Lose Second Industry

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—The east-coast Prince Edward Island town of Georgetown, population 700, has been hit by closure of a new fish processing plant and the future of its new ship-building yard appears uncertain. The two plants had been hailed as the beginning of a new economic era in eastern P.E.I.

The fish processing plant, Gulf Garden Foods Ltd., closed Dec. 2 because it lacked working capital after the provincial government refused further subsidies. Two hundred and fifty employees were thrown out of work.

Thomas Sanderson, president of Bathurst Marine Ltd., the shipyard that has been building trawlers for Gulf Garden, declined comment on Thursday on his company's financial position.

He said the company has contracts with two P.E.I. government agencies to build trawlers and "there are funds due to us" from both agencies—the Prince Edward Island Industrial Corp. and the Fishermen's Loan Board.

However, a source close to the government indicated doubt as to the government's obligation regarding payments under these contracts. Last month, Liberal Premier Alex Campbell said in an interview in Charlottetown that Bathurst Marine was experiencing difficulty in meeting its day-to-day financial commitments while showing accounts due on its books of $1,072,000. Of this, $835,000 was owed by associated companies headed by Jen Moe of Montreal—chairman of both Gulf Garden and Bathurst.

NO OBLIGATION
Only $50,000 of this amount was considered recoverable, the premier said. The source said Thursday it turned out there is no legal obligation on the government to pay monies to Bathurst. "It would appear that the yard has no source of income and would apparently follow its affiliate (Gulf Garden) down the path to closure."

Mr. Sanderson said negotiations are under way between Mr. Moe and the province. The Bathurst president says he understands one of the proposals Mr. Moe has made is to have government representation on the shipyard board of directors.

DIVERSION
Premier Campbell said an examination of Gulf Garden's books by independent auditors showed Gulf to be in need of operating capital but the government found itself unable to "approve any further commitment."

He also said "the government views with alarm the findings of the external auditors that funds have been diverted by the Georgetown companies to affiliated companies, some of which are outside the province." Asked Thursday if any legal action was anticipated against the companies, the premier said "we have not studied this aspect."

The province has a direct capital investment of some $7,000,000 in the two companies.

and NDP briefs was Saskatchewan's government-run compulsory insurance scheme.

The briefs claimed the Saskatchewan scheme was cheaper, more efficient and more just than B.C.'s privately-controlled operation.

Private plans have high rates and reluctant claims payment, the briefs added. They pointed out that as the Saskatchewan plan is compulsory for all motorists there's no chance of a driver or pedestrian being hit by an uninsured person and being unable to collect.

The Saskatchewan motorist buys his insurance when he buys his car licence.

This year for a 1966 model car with a wheelbase of more than 120 inches is cost $67. This provides $35,000 public liability coverage plus $200 deductible collision coverage.

B.C. Rates

And in B.C., where $50,000 liability coverage is the minimum allowed, the driver pays $73 with no collision coverage.

In the Saskatchewan plan drivers under 25 pay $45 premium.

In Ontario the $61 for public liability coverage jumps to $175 if there's a driver under 25 in the family.

In B.C. the $73 charge for liability insurance would increase to $192.

As blame does not have to be established, payments under the Saskatchewan plan are quick. Up to $10,000 is paid in the case of death.

The government plan competes with private insurance companies in providing optional insurance beyond the government-backed scheme.

Drivers with poor records can pay up to $60 extra for their coverage in Saskatchewan.

In British Columbia, where liability and collision coverage averages about $112, a poor driver would find his rate hiked by surcharges to $470. Rates for such drivers in Ontario often run higher than $300.

However, tripling and quadrupling of the normal premiums are not unusual for B.C. "as-good-as-risk" drivers, and at least two are paying premiums of $1,714 a year.

Simple Plan

Mr. Brown's battle plan was simple, as he outlined it in the early part of the hearing.

The insurance industry would prove, he told the commission, that the Saskatchewan scheme was unjust, expensive, inefficient and on the brink of financial disaster. Since then the industry has introduced 15 massive, statistically-ridiculous briefs.

It also has advanced more than a dozen management witnesses claiming private insurance is the only system compatible with public needs.

The Canadian Underwriters' Association, charged by the insurance industry and Canadian governments with preparing actuarial tables upon which car insurance rates and costs are based, defended industry techniques.

Jump Justified

The near doubling of B.C. private passenger auto insurance rates since January, 1965, was justified, claimed the CUA, in the light of severe losses suffered by the industry since 1963.

CUA's major ratemaking competitor, the Independent Insurance Conference, agreed.

It explained that it had instituted similar rate increases during the same period.

The nearly-identical rate increases, initiated on identical dates by the province's two major competing underwriting organizations, did not indicate collusion or lack of competition, industry witnesses said.

It was coincidence born of similar marketing and loss experiences by members of both groups, they told the commission.

More Crashes

The industry has rejected any responsibility for increased premium rates. Industry witnesses say in creased accident frequency, soaring labor and parts costs and higher average claims forced the rate hikes.

Commission counsel is Gordon S. Rae, QC, with commissioners Mr. Justice R. A. B. Wootton, Charles E. S. Walls and Dr. Peter Lustig.

The industry has defended its actuarial methods, justified its administrative structure, and claimed an unselfish sense of public service in the face of serious losses.

Its submissions have met with minimal rebuttal from Mr. Rae and complete silence from pre-commission critics.

More Prevention

The industry, which considers the commission as a threat to its corporate existence, has attacked suggestions of increased government regulation and supervision of auto insurance.

This would eliminate free competition, industry spokesmen say.

But the industry is unanimous in calling for increased government spending in the accident-prevention field.

The insurance companies are spending "hundreds of thousands of dollars" to safeguard their own financial interests, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan says.

Hard to Pinpoint

He said it would be difficult to pinpoint the exact sum which will be spent by insurance companies.

The insurance companies have produced a battery of legal experts supporting the status quo.

The commission, now in its 12th week of hearings, likely won't wind up until some time in January.

Fearful Wife Waits

The days are filled with dread for Hilda Maier, 835 Craig flower, as she waits for word of her husband who disappeared almost three weeks ago.

Mrs. Maier last saw her husband Wilbert when he left for work on Nov. 26. "I know he worked that night as desk clerk at the Churchill Hotel, and he was relieved at 7:15 a.m. on the 27th. That is the last anyone saw of him," she said.

"Unless he has amnesia," she said, "someone must have forced him to go away. He wasn't planning on going anywhere, I'm sure. He didn't even have a change of socks or a razor with him."

Known to his friends as Bert, Mr. Maier was driving a 1963 Black Oldsmobile, licence 10249, when he disappeared.

Body Found

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police are investigating the death of Mrs. Gladys Hembling, 55, of Vancouver, whose body was found in Burrard Inlet. The body was found by nearby resident Frank Hilderant.

He would have celebrated his 45th birthday on Dec. 4. He is described as five feet seven, weighing 115 pounds, with a dark complexion, crew-cut dark hair and dark-rimmed glasses.

When last seen he was wearing a wine sports jacket and grey pants, a red sweater and light summer shirt and tie.

"Someone, somewhere must have seen him," said Mrs. Maier, "but even police and detectives haven't found a trace of him."

All four of the couple's children are grown and away from home.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT

While the greater part of my mail comes from readers who find themselves in difficulty and need help with some specific garden problem, there is always a fair sprinkling of friendly, chatty letters from fellow gardeners who take a delight in passing on to me their own observations and experiences. These notes are of great value, apart from their warm friendliness, for I have picked up some most useful tips in this way, and it occurred to me I should perhaps share with you some of these readers' ideas.

One of these neighborly correspondents, for instance, tells me he had almost despaired of growing a decent lawn because of neighborhood dogs fouling the grass. He tried everything in the book to discourage their visits but, in spite of his efforts, his lawn was always mottled with disgusting yellow and brown patches.

He found a remedy by sheer chance. To clean out some dandelions, plantains and daisies which had found their way into his lawn, he bought a Weedex Wonder Bar, a heavy wax "log" impregnated with 2,4-D weedkiller which is dragged across the lawn by a couple of cords.

Not only did the weedkiller bar kill off all the broad-leaved weeds in his lawn but, to his surprise and delight, the dogs found the smell of the stuff distasteful and the canine visits ceased. He tells me it is routine practice in his garden now to treat the lawn about once every second week with the Weedex bar, whether or not there are any weeds in it.

Last spring a reader asked me to suggest some way she could keep pheasants from scratching up and eating all her pea seeds, and in my column I had to confess I didn't have any answer except to spread strawberry nets over the pea rows. This brought several excellent suggestions.

One correspondent told me about a proprietary powder called Fly Past which is dusted on the peas before sowing, rendering the seeds very bitter to the taste. He told me he hadn't had a small of trouble since he started using the stuff; moreover, it works just as well to keep crows and blackbirds from taking corn seed.

Unfortunately, I can't tell you where to buy Fly Past powder locally, as I can find it listed only in a few U.S. catalogues. However, I am sure the active principle is the same as that used in the mouse and rabbit repellents, sold under such names as Skout, Zip, No-Nib and Bunny Bay. These are harmless to plant and animal life and should work as well on seeds as on the bark of young trees.

Another reader has an even more simple solution to the pheasant problem; she covers her sown rows with a three-inch mulch of fresh lawn mowings. The peas — and corn — will come up through the layer of clippings, but the birds won't dig down through them to get at the seeds.

Slugs are always a problem in a garden where the soil is on the damp side, and never more so than in the strawberry patch, for these slimy brutes go for the ripe fruit in a big way, chewing holes in the shoulders of each berry. One of my regular readers seems to have run across a good defence against this pest, at least for small backyard strawberry patches where it is practicable to give each plant individual attention.

My friend saves all his tin cans, washing them and putting them through the can opener a second time so both top and bottom are removed, leaving a hollow cylinder. In spring he places one of these bottomless cans over each strawberry plant. The plant grows up through the top and, when the fruit forms the clusters, hang over the rim of the can, well up and away from the ground.

He tells me not a single berry was nibbled last year by slugs, although nearby tomatoes without protection were badly holed. Moreover, his "canned" strawberries ripened a week earlier than any in his neighborhood.

ERMA BOMBECK Tries Perfume Tack

Allure Fails to Work

The Rank Perfum Company, New York, New York.

Sirs, Recently, a small gold sample of your new perfume was included in my monthly statement from a local store.

I was all set to rip off the foil when I noted a small tag that warned, "READ THIS FIRST." It read, "Don't wear 'RANK' unless you mean it! It's personal. Save it for the real men in your life. Men who want you all to themselves. Who hold your coat for you. Who pamper and spoil you and keep you out too late. This perfume is a decision. Don't wear it unless you mean it!"

Well, I'm no fool. Right away I could tell this wasn't some harmless deodorant to toy with the affections of a few carry-out boys at the supermarket. This was the big ammunition. First, I had to decide whom to drive mad. Let's see now, the last man who wanted me all to himself was an insurance agent at a college homecoming dance. He held my hand only long enough to press a fountain pen into it so I could sign for a $5,000 endowment. I couldn't chance him. With a policy prospect plus a few dabs of "Rank," there's no telling what would happen.

I decided to use "RANK" on the father of my children, Old What's-his-name. (After all, he held my coat once when I cooped up with the kids all day long.)

Recklessly, I dabbed a few drops behind each ear and on the wrists and arched behind the sofa cushions.

"Hello, Tiger," I purred as he walked through the door. "I've made my decision and Y-O-U are it!"

"What's for dinner," he yawned.

"Oh, you are a cool one," I giggled, making my wrist under his nose. "Why don't you stop fighting it? Admit it, I'm getting through to you."

"Do I smell liver and onions?"

"Just try to tame me. You'll find me merciless!" I threw back my head and laughed.

"You oughta get out more. Cooped up with the kids all day long..."

"I know what's wrong with you," I pouted. "You're afraid to live... afraid this is all a crazy adventure and you'll wake up and I'll be gone."

"I'm afraid the liver and onions are going to burn. Round up the kids and let's eat."

Sirs, I am returning the unused portion of "RANK" in its original foil package. It smells nice. I just couldn't handle it.

Disappointed.

The Sick Sick World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Anything Goes—at 15!

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Linda Christian in Rome is allowing her daughter, 15-year-old Romina Power, to make every kind of film, no matter how sordid. The pretty brunette, whose father was the late Tyrone Power, has signed to star in Insurance, Italian Style, in which she plays a girl engaged to the richest man in Sicily. When he leaves for the wars, the purity of the girl is insured. If she yields, the marriage is off. So, her family on the way side tries to keep her on the straight and narrow, while the insurance company executives plot the opposite. Romina has already been articulated by the Italian legislators for appearing in the over-amorous comedy, How I Learned To Love Women. You can bet that none of this would have happened if Miss Power's father were still alive.

Brigitte Bardot has been collapsing with fatigue in Paris... And Marlon Brando is sulking in Rome because the "papparazzi" never leave him alone... And in London, Beatie Paul McCartney has reportedly grown a moustache... Too many provokers are forcing the Jack Carters from their home in Coldwater Canyon. As Julie Andrews sang in The Sound of Music, "The hills are alive..." — not with music — with burglars.

Rossano Brami, now on screen as the villain in The Christmas That Almost Wasn't, told me he is convinced that the law against divorce in Italy will never be changed — "because of the vacation. But I am sure there will soon be some changes in the Catholic Church's attitude towards birth control." Rossano wants to sell his magnificent penthouse in Rome. "I've put a million and a half dollars into it. There are only 10 men in Italy who could buy it today."

Busy Michael Caine turned down a starring vignette in Shirley MacLaine's Woman Times Seven. He will attend the New York Dec. 21 premiere of Gambit in which he co-starred with Shirley. The beginning of this amusing film is a surprise and the first time that I can remember where the flash forward is used rather than the flashback.

If you know of a boy who looks like a blond angel and sings like Caruso, contact Romulus Films in London. They are looking for such a boy to play the title role in Oliver, the new film version. With the Barons bowing out, they still have to sign a Fagin and Nancy. Like I said before, why not the originators of the roles in London — Ron Moody and George Brown?

Fame has come to Robert Forster who is co-starring with Liz Taylor and Marlon Brando in Reflections In A Golden Eye. An American magazine has commissioned Betty McDowell to take his photograph!

Watch for Vanessa Redgrave as Anne Boleyn blowing softly on Robert Shaw — Henry VIII in her brief scene in A Man For All Seasons. It was Vanessa's idea, and employed for the first time in her films she assured me when I chatted with her recently. Before she came to Hollywood for Camelot, Vanessa had a frenzied batch of driving lessons. You simply must know how to drive in this town.

SYDNEY HARRIS

Airs His Thoughts

The word "freedom" should be two rarely, divided into its two components of "inner freedom" and "outer freedom"; this might clarify the point that without the inner freedom to think, outer freedom is meaningless; and without the outer freedom to act on our judgments, inner freedom is irrelevant.

With half of all American families headed by a person over 65 being in the poverty bracket — that is, having an income less than $3,000 a year — and with 4,000,000 unattached individuals over 65 earning half of that — how can the United States speak without shame of "the most prosperous country in the history of the world?"

What we must recognize if we are to survive the 20th century is that there can no longer be military "solutions" to large-scale conflicts, but only political settlements reached through negotiations; for war is no longer, as Clausewitz said, "an extension of politics by other means," but has become a self-liquidating process for both sides.

Today we hear little but thunder from the left and thunder from the right, all of it unaccompanied by any lightning to illuminate the way.

In India, 130,000,000 school-age children do not go to school, and the government spends only 32 cents per pupil per year for education; and throughout the world, in the last six years alone, there has been an increase of 200,000,000 in the world's population of illiterates — and whoever opposes birth control in such areas must be held responsible for adding to the world's stock of unemployment, starvation and misery.

It is hard not to agree with Prof. John J. O'Mara of the Safety Research Foundation, when he says: "It is ironic that present public policy is increasing the highway slaughter by encouraging more and more highway travel while at the same time it is throwing away a railroad transportation system which is at least 10 times safer than highway transportation."

Many mistakenly believe that "ideas are dangerous," but they are not; only feelings are dangerous, and most dangerous of all are precisely those feelings which masquerade as "ideas."

The mediocre man who is bored with his environment seeks to find other diversions and only sinks further into boredom; the extraordinary man who is bored seeks to alter his environment, and succeeds in providing himself and others with social and cultural advance.

The only time for a father to be a "pal" to his son is before the boy is old enough to find pals elsewhere; after that, it is too late.

Richmond Avenue

Council Rejects Rezoning Of School Site

The former site of Malvern House School on Richmond Avenue, near Greenoaks Terrace will not be rezoned to permit the erection of an apartment building, city council decided Thursday.

Because the site is located on an attractive residential street with well-established single-family dwellings, it will be kept that way and held for single-family residences.

Furthermore, aldermen felt, an apartment building would be out of scale with development in the area.

NO GARDEN UNITS

The council concurred with the recommendation of the Advisory Planning Commission in making its decision.

On the recommendation of its planning commission, council also rejected an application to build garden apartments on a block of vacant land near North Dairy Road and Shakespeare Street, on the grounds that the site was not suitable.

The plan, rejected by aldermen, envisaged several types of buildings "Tudor-styled" and finished in brick and stucco. "Town houses" and apartments would cover a rental range from $110 to $185.

The planning commission felt that the land was flat and provided none of the characteristics, including stands of trees and differing levels, which went to make up good areas for such development.

SEMINAR

City council will send a delegation to an Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities seminar on municipal problems to be held in Parksville on Feb. 3 and 4, it was decided.

Capital budget questions and the relation between school boards and councils will be among the questions discussed at the meeting.

A number of tenders for construction of a canopy on the north side of the 700 block Yates Street will be considered by committee. Lowest tender was for $34,426 from Farmer Construction Ltd.

Empty Plane Hits Houses

ROSSMOOR, Calif. (UPI) A U.S. Navy jet fighter exploded and burned when it slammed into at least six homes near the Leisure World Housing Development for the elderly here Thursday after its pilot ejected, authorities reported.

Sgt. Charles Conaway of the Orange County sheriff's department said one person was injured, but there apparently were no fatalities.

Drinking Drivers Warned

The drinking driver may expect a chilly reception this Christmas season as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are joining municipal law enforcement agencies in a province-wide crackdown on holiday highway hazards.

Traffic check points will be placed in cities, towns and on main highways by the RCMP, aimed at detecting the drinking driver. "E" Division in Victoria reports.

"In the final analysis, it is the driver's responsibility to prevent traffic accidents," the RCMP said.

The division also noted that there were 67 traffic fatalities in B.C. during December, 1965.

Powell River

Judicial Recount Ordered

POWELL RIVER (CP) — A judicial recount has been ordered on the $1,248,000 school referendum vote held Saturday in the Powell River area.

The recount, ordered after the referendum apparently failed by two votes to obtain the required 60 per cent majority, is expected to take place in Powell River Tuesday, providing necessary arrangements can be completed in time.

EARLY REPORT
Following the voting, it was reported the referendum scraped through with 60.06 per cent of the voters approving expenditure of $1,248,000 for school construction and additions in school district No. 47, which takes in Powell River and adjacent areas.

However, a recheck of ballots today after all rural votes were received, showed a final vote of 1,330 in favor and 890 opposed. That dropped the percentage in favor to 59.9 per cent.

Officials said a vote of 1,332 in favor of the referendum was required to reach the 60 per cent needed for approval.

Children Die As Fire Forms Trap

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — Three young children died early Thursday when fire swept through their home in this northern coastal community.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wing, identified as Debra, 8, Toni, 5, and son Dale, 6, apparently died of asphyxiation, firemen said.

Neither parent was home at the time of the blaze, which firemen said was started by a faulty extension cord. Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Plante and their child escaped from an upstairs suite in the house.

Mr. Plante said he was unable to enter the downstairs suite where the three children were sleeping due to dense smoke and flames.

Young Girl Shot In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A young girl was found shot to death on a dirt road near suburban Clarkson early Thursday after a man walked into a west-end police station and reported a shooting.

An hour later police found the body of Valerie Joanne Wilkinson, 17, of Toronto. She had been shot in the chest and head.

Her parents later told police she hadn't been home since last Friday. They said she had dated one man "quite steadily" in recent weeks.

Giuseppe Busato, 23, of suburban Etobicoke was charged with capital murder.

Falling Rock Kills Miner

INVERMERE (CP) — Sergio Pasin, 30, of Invermere was killed Wednesday by a falling rock at the Mineral King Mine, 28 miles west of this East Kootenay community.

Coroner R. T. Stick said an inquest will be held. No date has been set.

Park Lights

Council Kept Word

The people who were so noisy about floodlighting in Royal Athletic Park should be prepared now to agree that the city was telling the truth in the matter, Ald. Michael Griffin said Thursday.

He recalled, at a meeting of city council, that when it was announced some months ago that there would be a delay in the installation of the lighting because of the fact that the city did not then have the money to pay for it, there were a lot of "vociferous critics."

Those same critics should also recall that the city promised to install the lighting as soon as the money was available, and predicted that it would probably be before the contract for renewal of the park was completed, Ald. Griffin said.

WHAT IT SAID

In ratifying a committee decision to spend $34,392 (raised through sale of city-owned land), council was now doing just what it said it would do, the alderman pointed out.

It might be wise for the critics to realize that the council was telling the simple truth when it said what it did months ago.

Ald. Michael Griffin, at the conclusion of the meeting of city council, was given a standing ovation following a tribute to his work paid by Ald. Cecil Parrott. Ald. Griffin did not stand for re-election this year.

Buddha Buy Banned

LONDON (Reuters) — A London department store has stopped selling a bath oil called Lord Buddha. Ceylon's high commissioner, G. P. Mahipala, said it would offend Buddhists and the store, which sold the oil in a plastic model of a Buddha with a plastic measuring cup on its head, apologized.

Exercise Unites Services

HALIFAX (CP)—More than 1,000 Canadian forces personnel headed back to their bases Thursday as exercise Web Foot, a joint army, air force and navy operation, ended in southern Nova Scotia.

The exercise was held in cold, wet weather in the Blandford area, about 30 miles southwest of here.

An armed forces spokesman said the exercise, designed to practice joint planning at all levels of the services, went off smoothly despite bad weather.

Exercise Web Foot began early Tuesday when troops of the friendly forces began landing on the St. Margarets Bay shore to find and destroy a small enemy force which had landed earlier, supposedly by submarine.

Taking part in the war game were three Voyager helicopters, three T-33 jet aircraft, the destroyer-escort Chaudiere and the helicopter-destroyers Assiniboine, Margaree and Ottawa.

Bugs Ground Breath Balloon

By JACK FRY

Legislative Reporter

British Columbia will not be able to introduce its roadside drinking tests until early in 1967, Attorney-General Bonner said Thursday.

The government planned to introduce its program in Greater Victoria next week, in time for the Christmas holiday period.

But Mr. Bonner said he was disappointed with the results of tests conducted with a portable balloon device at the RCMP laboratory in Regina.

Manufacturers in the United States will be asked if they can improve the device to the point where it will register a simple "yes" or "no" reading to indicate whether the blood alcohol content is above .08 per cent.

Motor Vehicle Superintendent Ray Hadfield said Thursday the RCMP lab tests were "a little shocking, because we had been given to understand the accuracy was there."

When the system is perfected and put into operation, the government will proclaim legislation passed during the last session, which will allow policemen to suspend licences of borderline drivers for 24 hours.

A driver stopped and challenged by a policeman would have the right to refuse the roadside test and take a voluntary breathalyzer test to prove his blood alcohol content is below the .08 per cent level.

The roadside device itself consists of a balloon and a vial of crystals which change color when alcohol is present. The policeman must judge the color change.

The machine now in use by police is much more precisely made, operates in a controlled environment and uses a photo-electric cell to compare the colors of the crystals, Mr. Hadfield said.

Pride of Navy 'Pile of Junk'

OTTAWA (CP) — The pride of the navy — the aircraft carrier Bonaventure — was described as "a pile of junk" in the Commons Thursday.

Robert Prittle (NDP-Burnaby-Richmond) worked in the jibe in a question to Revenue Minister Benson, Mr. Benson had just said Canada couldn't afford a 40-per-cent pay increase for air traffic controllers.

"Can the Canadian people afford to pay out $11,000,000 on that pile of junk the Bonaventure?"

The question went unanswered.

The Bonaventure is currently undergoing an extensive overhaul and the defence department has had to increase its estimate of how much the work will cost. The figure now runs into millions of dollars.

Air Talks Showing Continued Progress

OTTAWA (CP) — Revenue Minister Benson reported continuing progress Thursday in talks aimed at settling a dispute over air traffic controllers' strike without recourse to government intervention.

Mr. Benson, president of the treasury board, the cabinet committee dealing with the controllers, declined to give details but said talks would continue.

Government legislation to block the scheduled Tuesday strike already has been prepared and is to be introduced today.

A spokesman for the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers' Association, vice-president Jim Conway of Winnipeg, promised earlier that there would be no attempt to defy the legislation. But the association will stick to its wage demands until the legislation is passed.

The government's strike-busting legislation would provide for pay increases for the controllers, but the amount has not been specified. Their salaries now range from $4,800 to $9,528.

'Cover-Up' Charged To Witness

VANCOUVER (CP) — The head of the royal commission inquiry into the bugging of a union convention here last month accused a union witness of "covering up" in his testimony to the commission Thursday.

Commissioner R. A. Sargent said he was unimpressed with the evidence of Murray Johnston of Nanaimo, one of four officials of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada called to give his recollection of conversations at the union's convention.

A private investigator testified earlier that he placed electronic listening devices in the union's hotel convention rooms. He said he was hired by Pat O'Neal, regional organizer for the rival International Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

Bonn Shuns A-Bomb

Pledge Breaks Jam

PARIS (CP) — West Germany's pledge that it will not seek nor desire the manufacture or control of the atom bomb on a national basis is considered by Canada to have broken the main log-jam barring completion of an East-West pact to ban the spread of nuclear weapons.

Willy Brandt, West Germany's new foreign minister, made the pledge before the 15-country NATO council Thursday. Later External Affairs Minister Paul Martin told a press conference he would be "very disappointed" if the pact is not completed when the 17-country United Nations conference in Geneva is reconvened in February.

Informants described Martin as feeling Brandt's statement was impressive and sincere, leading to the conviction that there should be no longer any fundamental obstacle to the conclusion of an agreement.

Soviet authorities had told Martin during his recent tour they would not be prepared to sign the agreement if they felt proliferation would develop in another form—a reference to Soviet fears that Germany aspires to become an atomic power.

Martin also was said to be impressed with the statement by French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, that France will adhere to the political side of NATO even after the review period of 1969. However, Couve made clear he did not believe there could be a united NATO political policy, a suggestion indicating there still will be many difficulties between NATO and the maverick member which has withdrawn from integrated military co-operation.

Prudential Losses Top $17,000,000

By KEN SMITH

Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP)—In a stormy session that brought frequent curses and even a cry for a lynching, creditors of Prudential Finance Corp. Ltd. had their first meeting Thursday and learned that their position shapes up as even worse than had been expected.

J. L. Biddell, president of Clarkson Co. Ltd., trustee for the company placed in bankruptcy Dec. 5, told creditors that losses now known stand at $17,000,000 — and more will come.

Warning that it will take many more weeks to sort out details, Mr. Biddell said losses will run between $19,000,000 and $20,000,000. When Prudential Finance was first reported in trouble a month ago, it showed a book value of $25,000,000.

The meeting, attended by about 800 of the 8,500 noteholders in Canada, heard expressions like "bloodsuckers," "good - for - nothing gangsters," "corrupters" and "four-flushers."

When one speaker—who identified himself only as a Mr. Davis — called for a lynching, many applauded.

There were repeated demands that the federal or provincial governments—or both—bail out the creditors.

Resolutions were passed calling for the presence at the next creditors' meeting of Premier John Roberts and Attorney-General Arthur Wishart of Ontario and C. C. Carrothers, London, Ont., lawyer who was a Prudential Finance director and is a partner in the law firm to which Mr. Roberts belonged.

When a debate started on appointing trustees for the bankrupt company, a woman at the back of the orchestra seats in the Royal Alexandra Theatre where the meeting was held yelled:

"What the hell good are trustees?"

World's Best Friend Walt Disney Dead

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Walt Disney, the greatest showman since P. T. Barnum, died Thursday of acute circulatory failure. The 65-year-old entrepreneur left us his legacy to the world: Disneyland, fabulous cartoon characters such as Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck, and universally acclaimed motion pictures. (See also Page 19.)

He died at mid-morning in St. Joseph Hospital in nearby Burbank, where his left lung was removed last Nov. 21 after doctors discovered a tumor which had caused abscesses. It was not disclosed whether the tumor was malignant. A cardiologist was at Disney's bedside when he succumbed.

The hospital in which Disney passed away is located across the street from the movie studio he founded.

Disney's death shocked the world. Before noon, messages of condolence poured into Hollywood from around the globe.

Los Angeles County super-

Docks Inquiry Trio Named

OTTAWA (CP) — The promised federal inquiry into the West Coast ports tie-up will be conducted by Mr. Justice C. Rhodes Smith of the Manitoba Appeals Court, Labor Minister Nicholson announced Thursday.

The dispute centred on demands by foremen to form their own collective bargaining unit. The ports were tied up three weeks.

Mr. Justice Smith will be assisted by H. J. C. Terry, Vancouver, former president of Northland Navigation Co. and Joseph Morris, former IWA western district president and now executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress in Ottawa.

Mr. Nicholson also said the cabinet has issued a directive to guarantee all stevedores eight statutory holidays a year. Many stevedores miss out on the holidays and two weeks' vacations because they work for several employers, none of whom was legally responsible.

Duncan Dam Bursts

By MARIE CADORETTE

DUNCAN — A small dam burst and spilled the raging Cowichan River through residential area of Cowichan Indian Reserve Thursday night.

At midnight 30 members of three families were standing by to evacuate their homes in the Mission Road area.

The water was at the doorstep of each house, the residents, from aging grandmothers to babies, were prepared to move if floods invaded the homes.

"I think we will have to get out," said Abraham Joe, public works chairman of the Indian band.

WRONG WAY

Ever since the dam was built, and he was one of the crew that built it, Mr. Joe has maintained the structure was constructed in the wrong way, and it would burst before high water.

As his prediction came true Thursday night, Mr. Joe could take little pleasure in the vindication of his argument — he was preparing to move his own family from one of the three houses.

In all, 74 persons are directly in the path of rising waters, and may have to evacuate.

TRUCKS STAND BY

All night the Cowichan band truck and trucks provided by the Civil Defence stood by.

Also waiting to help were 24 teen-age volunteers from Teen Town, ready to help with the moving.

Evacuated families were given temporary shelter in the old agricultural hall, where stoves and other provisions are installed.

WASTE OF MONEY

One evacuated family is now in the armories.

"I knew damn well that dike would go," Mr. Joe said. "It was a waste of the government's money."

He was working on the dam Thursday when he saw a tree had sunk into the dam. At 4:30 p.m. he took another look, and "I knew it was going."

"I watched it all the time. It was caving in, little by little. And then it broke."

He said: "I saw a whole tree go floating by. I knew it was going to cause a jam somewhere. The water came very fast."

The water got home before he did, and after wading across his yard, he found his steps under eight inches of water.

Anytime families want to come out of their homes, trucks will assist them.

Mr. Joe gave no reason for

Crashes Worry Policeman

NANAIMO — There is an intersection in Nanaimo that has been the scene of three accidents a week.

It is the Northfield Road, Highway and Highland Boulevard intersection.

Wednesday night, a three-car accident resulted in injuries, and prompted Constable Alex Marchuk to spend a half-hour on the telephone, enquiring about the possibilities of making the intersection safer.

Around The Island

A Department of Highways spokesman said surveys have been conducted, but as yet, no official word about changes has been received.

Rumor of changes has been indicated for Departure Bay, Brechin and Estevan Roads. Rhoda Travis suffered shoulder and neck injuries.

COURTENAY — The annual Vancouver Island Amateur Basketball Association meeting showed the north and south showing growing interest in basketball, while the central part of the Island is having difficulty in finding help.

Gus Vesterback was re-elected administrator for Vancouver Island. Mrs. Ann Vesterback was re-elected secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Ruth McKellar was re-elected registrar.

UNION BAY — Marilyn Richardson is making satisfactory progress after undergoing open-heart surgery in Vancouver General Hospital.

Thieves Steal Lights

NANAIMO — The first to the home of Floyd Warner, on the tree in front of their home, steal Christmas tree lights this year, struck Wednesday night. When the Warners looked Thursday morning, their string of 25 lights was missing from the tree.

Every year, lights are lost to the Christmas thief or vandal. People filled with the spirit of the season decorate their houses providing beauty for the enjoyment of all.

Tossing Eggs at Police? What a Costly Exercise

DUNCAN — A 20-year-old Duncan man's type of humor cost him $150.

Roy Nikirk was with a group of youths who were throwing eggs at RCMP officers Halloween night. Nikirk said eggs were coming from the left and right going to the opposite side of Station Street.

He denied throwing any. But a witness for the prosecution said he saw the accused as one of a group of youths firing eggs.

Frederick Schiller, a civic employee on duty Oct. 31, told the court the egg throwing started "as soon as the cops turned their backs."

Nikirk was one of five youths charged with assault following Halloween pranks.

Pupils Plan Gunned Down

COURTENAY C. E. Ritchie, superintendent of schools here, has again urged trustees of the district 71 to lower pupil teacher ratios, especially in primary classes.

He has on several recent occasions asked the board to consider teachers over-entitlement, but Chairman Brian Walker has declared he felt the school board should adhere to government policy on the matter and stated, "I'm not sure about this over-entitlement thing."

At a board meeting this week, Mr. Ritchie again urged the board to provide extra teacher on a non-shareable basis and declared "It is not good for a child to begin school in classes of 39 and 40, we should try for 35."

He also told the board some schools in the district now qualify 50 and 60 additional pupils have enrolled since Sept. and he felt if the situation remained the same by the start of the new term, extra teachers should be sought.

In his reference to teachers over-entitlement, Mr. Walker asked "What about space?" Mr. Ritchie replied, "Now that referendum No. 7 has passed, we can forge ahead with classrooms."

Later in the meeting however a letter was read from education department officials who warned while a referendum may be passed it does not follow that construction will be allowed.

Mr. Walker commented the letter rather shot down the extra classrooms idea.

game undefeated streak into their Pacific Coast Soccer League game against New Westminster Saturday. The lads, who look like the Glasgow telephone directory, they know a caddy's loup from the dog's doup.

The club has seven Scottish-born players and three Canadians who can obviously claim privileged ancestry.

The Scots are centre-half Bill Hamilton, wing-halves George Paul, Tom Westwater and Jeff Sweet, and forwards Jim Menzies, Martin Taylor and Bert Soutar.

Then there are Canadians like MacKay, Donald McIntosh and Duncan McCall. You can't question their Celtic credentials.

Only Sassenach on the team is newcomer Peter Brett who has overcome the language barrier and the prejudice against the "auld enemy" to become the club's driving force at inside forward.

With that lineup and their dark blue shirts, O'Keefes could almost pass as the fabled Rangers or the Scottish national team. Almost, anyway.

But the reliance on Scots isn't confined to Victoria. New Westminster, winners of four of their last six games, came to life this season after the addition of Jim Nicols, a former pro with St. Mirren in the Scottish first division.

All of which supports the old line that there are 4,000,000

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

There has been a "burying of the hatchet" between several outdoor groups within the past few weeks and this can only result in a much better co-ordinated presentation of outdoor problems on all fronts in 1967.

The Amalgamated Conservation Society, representing 14 outdoor groups and 14,000 persons on lower Vancouver Island, has joined with the B.C. Wildlife Federation in an advisory capacity to help form a new salmon fishing policy.

Pacific Salmon Society, a comparatively new Vancouver group interested in salmon problems, and members of Amalgamated Conservation Society met this week and a liaison program is being formulated.

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce has resumed active participation in the Amalgamated Conservation Society.

More liaison is to be sought between the Federation of Campbell River and Saanich Salmon of Courtenay and both the ACS of Victoria and Pacific Salmon of Vancouver.

The Fishing Chapter of Victoria Fish and Game Club has voted to become a more active committee of the Fish and Game Club rather than, as it has been, almost a separate club on its own. That means that fishing will play a bigger part on the programs before general membership meetings.

Pacific Putters' Association, the organization of weekend and time-off commercial fishermen, who have often been butt of attacks by sports fishermen, is considering joining with Amalgamated Conservation Society's salmon rehabilitation studies and campaigns.

It is likely the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union will be invited to join with the Amalgamated Conservation Society and the Pacific Salmon Society in a combined effort for more satisfactory salmon rehabilitation projects.

It also might happen that an exchange of ideas may bring about some relief to Juan de Fuca Strait sports fishermen. Not all these groups see eye to eye on all problems, but they all think alike in a number of directions and co-operation can bring about little but good.

More salmon is a common interest of all. Park development is another. The B.C. Wildlife Federation will be able to give support and add weight to ACS proposals regarding fishing, water fishing, and Federation executive-director Howard Pash to ACS members last week, and he invited them to help form new fishing policies through the Victoria Fish and Game Club, which is an ACS member and a member of the Wildlife Federation.

Victoria Fish and Game Club, which has sometimes been a rebel in Federation activities, will host the Wildlife Federation Convention scheduled for the Empress Hotel in May.

To be held right on the doorstep of the provincial government this convention is expected to produce big things, both from the ease to approach government with demands and from the fact government experts will be near at hand for advice.

Freshwater fishing will be pretty well a writeoff this weekend because of flood conditions on all rivers. But there will be some who find spots where they can fish. Watch for that dropping water because that is the time to take steelhead in such rivers as the Sooke, Harris Creek and San Juan River, where water levels rise and fall like a yo-yo.

But, the saltwater presents a brighter picture. Saanich Inlet is producing pretty well for winter chinooks. Tod Inlet halfway to Willis Point, has been best spot and they are taking pretty well anything from Hootchie Kootchie to plies, minnows and strip, one pound, and 100 feet of nylon on mornings, 150 feet of wire line and pliner later in the day. Grise are still in good numbers in the Willis Point-Saanich Island-Rick's Roost waters. At Goldstream springs (chinooks) are being taken between Hall's dock and Goldstream Island. Oak Bay has a few winter springs, and jacks showed at Pedder Bay this week and the big springs usually arrive a day or so later.

Duncan Bay at Campbell River has been hot for big springs up to 20 pounds. Most are being taken from boats, but spinners from the cup mill dock have been getting them on a 4-ounce Heildiver. Big springs are being taken right in the bay at Nanooce and Northwest Bay and off the wharves at Departure Bay.

Roy Fleming with a 16.12-pound spring (chinook) weighed at Creeds Landing was the big Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association trophy winner for November.

Wyn Rusk won the women's trophy with a 12.14-pounder from Finlayson Arm.

Hidden weight winners were Alf Joyce, H. Grant, D. Marsh and Bert Acres.

Hockey's Bad Boy Sharp As Leafs Dropped 5-2

VICTORIA 2, LOS ANGELES 5

LOS ANGELES—The centre of a controversial trade between Los Angeles Blades and Detroit Red Wings paced the Blades to a 5-2 victory over Victoria Maple Leafs, Thursday night in the California city.

Howie Young, the onetime bad boy of the National Hockey League, scored one goal and as-isted on two others as the Blades jumped into third place in the WHL, two points ahead of Oakland and six points back of Vancouver Canucks.

Earlier this week the Detroit Red Wings traded two players from their organization to purchase Young in an attempt to bolster their defensive corps.

Chicago Black Hawks, who have a working agreement with the Blades, squashed the deal and Young thus remained with the Blades organization.

Tommy McVie sent the Blades ahead when he combined with Young and Blades goalkeeper Jack Norris to beat Leafs Al Smith.

Just three minutes later Milan Marcetta put the Leafs back on even terms after taking passes from linemate Bob Barlow and defenseman Aut Erickson.

Young's goal in the second period came from just inside the blueline and went screaming past a surprised Smith. The goal was Young's fifth of the season and gave him 22 points for the year, fourth best of the Los Angeles club.

The Leafs stormed back and just moments later Bruce Gar-michael evened the score when he combined with Gordy Redan and Dick Lamoreux but here, the Leafs luck ran out.

With just seconds remaining in the middle period the Blades' Mel Pearson put them ahead to stay.

Los Angeles added two goals in the third period for good measure.

MILESTONE REACHED

Norm Johnson, long time WHL veteran, scored the last Blade marker. The goal established Johnson with 700 points since he joined the Western League. Dick Meissner scored the other Blades goal.

The loss snapped a two game win streak for the Leafs but they get the chance to get back in the winners circle tonight when they clash with San Diego.

Just three minutes later Milan Marcetta put the Leafs back on even terms after taking passes from linemate Bob Barlow and defenseman Aut Erickson.

Young's goal in the second period came from just inside the blueline and went screaming past a surprised Smith. The goal was Young's fifth of the season and gave him 22 points for the year, fourth best of the Los Angeles club.

The Leafs stormed back and just moments later Bruce Gar-michael evened the score when he combined with Gordy Redan and Dick Lamoreux but here, the Leafs luck ran out.

With just seconds remaining in the middle period the Blades' Mel Pearson put them ahead to stay.

Los Angeles added two goals in the third period for good measure.

MILESTONE REACHED

Norm Johnson, long time WHL veteran, scored the last Blade marker. The goal established Johnson with 700 points since he joined the Western League. Dick Meissner scored the other Blades goal.

The loss snapped a two game win streak for the Leafs but they get the chance to get back in the winners circle tonight when they clash with San Diego.

Stockers Drought May End Tonight

Stockers North Americans, a new entry in the Esquimalt Hockey League, made their debut Nov. 4 with a 4-1 victory over Canadian Forces Base Combs.

Since that day, coach Doug Anderson's squad, has failed to pick up any points and is in last place, two points behind the Combs.

Stockers will be trying for a share of third place when they play Combs tonight at 8:30. Their main task will be to keep high-scoring sailor Ken Maxwell out of the play.

Maxwell holds down third place in the scoring race behind Vikings Ted Sarkissian and Bill Rudy.

Landry, Roland Receive Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Landry, who has brought Dallas Cowboys from an expansion team to a possible National Football League championship in just seven years, has been named coach of the year in the NFL.

The selection was made by a panel of sportscasters and writers from each of the NFL cities.

Landry, breezed to the honor by a large margin with 19 votes as against nine for Charley Winner of the St. Louis Cardinals.

ROOKIE GOT VOTES

Vince Lombardi of Green Bay Packers, George Allen of Los Angeles Rams, Otto Graham of Washington Redskins and Norm Hecker of Atlanta Falcons also received votes.

Landry, a former member of the New York Giants, went to Dallas in 1960 and his team compiled an 8-11 record in his first year at the helm.

Elsewhere in the NFL, Johnny Roland of the St. Louis Cardinals was, Thursday, named rookie of the year in the NFL.

RECEIVED BONUS

Roland, a 1965 all-American from Missouri, received a large bonus to sign with the Cards last season.

He won in a close vote with Tommy Nobis, who won all-American notices for two years, of the Atlanta Falcons.

In the Cards first 13 games Roland accounted for 1,568 yards with his running, passing and catching. He has scored six touchdowns and has thrown one touchdown pass. He also leads the NFL in yards gained on returning punts.

Among those receiving votes

Cotton Stops Heavyweight

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Seattle veteran Eddie Cotton made an impressive debut as a heavyweight here Tuesday night, stopping Charlie Hall with a perfectly-timed right hand in the first round of their scheduled ten-round bout.

Hall, a 181 pounder from Phoenix, Ariz., managed to regain his feet but referee Jim Rondeau called it a knockout, ending the fight after two minutes and 51 seconds. Cotton weighed in at 180.

Athlete of Year Award To Black Hawks' Hull

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Bobby Hull, blonde thunderbolt of the Chicago Black Hawks, has been named outstanding Canadian male athlete for the second year in a row.

Hull, who fought a tight race with runner Bill Crothers of Marham, Ont., in the 1965 voting, this year swept into first place by a comfortable margin over quarterback Russ Jackson of Ottawa Rough Riders.

CROTHERS SLIPPED
Crothers pulled only one vote — for third place — this time.

The 121 sports writers and broadcasters who voted in the 32nd annual Canadian Press year-end poll gave the 27-year-old left winger from Point Anne, Ont., 232 points — 71 more than Jackson, Canada's football player-of-the-year.

Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., who won the U.S. amateur golf championship this year, was third 43 points behind Jackson.

Voters were asked to name the top three individual athletes in order of preference and points were computed on a 3-2-1 basis.

Hull polled 56 first-place votes, 25 seconds and 14 thirds. Jackson had 18 for first, 44 for second and 19 for third.

Cowan had 18 first-place votes, 20 for second and 24 thirds.

JEROME FOURTH

Harry Jerome of Vancouver, world-record sprinter who won a gold medal in the 100-yard dash at Kingston, Jamaica, in the 1966 British Empire Games, was fourth with 91 points, 27 behind Cowan. Jerome shares the world record of 10 seconds over 100 metres with four others.

George Knudson of Toronto, the Winnipeg-born golfer who won individual honors at the Canada Cup matches in Tokyo, came on late to move into fifth spot ahead of swimmer Ralph Hutton of Ocean Falls, B.C.

Knudson had 64 points on 14 firsts, seven seconds and eight thirds. Hutton, who won a gold, five second-place silvers and two bronzes at Jamaica, had 25 points on two firsts, five seconds and nine third-place votes.

SHATTERED RECORD

Hull, five-foot-10 and 193 pounds, broke the NHL scoring record last year with 54 goals and set a total-points record with 97.

The 27-year-old, who moved into the NHL 10 years ago from junior hockey, had tied the old 50-goal record in the 1961-62 season — sharing it with Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, both of whom hit the mark playing with Montreal Canadiens.

TOPS IN FOOTBALL

Jackson, Hamilton-born vice-principal of an Ottawa high school, won the player-of-the-year and top Canadian player awards in the Canadian Football League for the way he led the Rough Riders into the Grey Cup championship game.

Ottawa was defeated for the championship 23-14 by Saskatchewan Roughriders, quarterbacked by Ron Lancaster, who got two third-place votes in the best-athlete balloting.

Below sixth place in the balloting, there were only scattered votes for a variety of athletes.

Tied at three points apiece were Moe Norman, Kitchener, Ont., golfer; George Athans Jr., Kelowna, B.C., water skier; Gordie Howe, Detroit Red Wings; Gary Leibe, Edmonton, Edmonton, Western Football Conference rookie of the year; and Avelino Gomez, Toronto, jockey trying for the North American riding championship.

Bracketed at two points each were Fergie Jenkins, Chatham, Ont., pitcher with Chicago Cubs; Lancaster; Terry Evanshen, Calgary Stampeder; Hanker; Jim Day, Toronto, equestrian.

Single third-place votes went to Crothers; Bobby Rousseau, Montreal Canadiens; Ron Northwest, Calgary, skip of the world championship curling rink; Bobby Orr, Boston Bruins defenseman; Ken Neilson, end with Winnipeg Blue Bombers; George Faulkner, Bishop's Falls, N.B., scoring leader with the national hockey team.

Another Vote May Be Held On Fuller's Lake Project

By KLAUS MUENTER

NORTH COWICHAN — Taxpayers who have already approved a $330,000 project, want to have another vote so they can approve it again.

Another vote on an arena at Fuller's Lake has been requested by Chemainus taxpayers.

President of the Chemainus Ratepayers' and Citizens' Association, Louis Shelling, expressed the strong feeling of his group.

He told North Cowichan council Thursday "The validity of the bylaw which approved the building of the arena is being challenged in court, and it appears that the appeal procedure can extend over a considerable period of time."

SETBACKS

"Delays result in two serious setbacks: Lack of provision of needed recreational facilities and considerable continuing increase in construction costs."

"In view of this and because the people that voted for the bylaw are very disturbed by the delay, I suggest the council submit another bylaw to the voters in the same area."

STRONG SUPPORT

The arena bylaw, amounting to $330,000, was strongly supported at the polls by residents in the northern part of the municipality several months ago.

A taxpayer in the southern portion of North Cowichan, Joseph Haddock, challenged the bylaw's validity.

Mr. Justice J. G. Rutan rejected an application to have the bylaw quashed.

VOTE FAILED

The $330,000 arena bylaw was put before voters in the northern part, after a $700,000 composite recreational bylaw for the entire municipality, which also included the arena at Fuller's Lake, failed to gain support from the southern portion of the municipality.

Reeve Donald Morton told Mr. Shelling the request for another bylaw has to be examined by council.

REEVE PUZZLED

He said, "If it had not been for Mr. Haddock the arena could have been built by midsummer and the whole matter would have been resolved."

"The appeal might go ahead, but I am completely puzzled why a person who does not even have to pay for this arena is opposing it so strongly."

"It is beyond my comprehension."

MEETING SUGGESTED

The reeve suggested a meeting with ratepayers in Chemainus, and to invite Mr. Haddock to attend.

Reeve Morton advised council the Duncan Chamber is in need of more money to continue operation of the town's information bureau.

GRANT SEEN

The reeve said a meeting will be arranged between the chamber and representatives from North Cowichan and the city of Duncan.

The reeve said an increased grant for the chamber in 1967 should be considered and most councillors agreed.

SECOND CHAMBER

The reeve said the Chemainus-Crofton Chamber also had to review its financial position and decided to raise membership dues.

In reference to the recent municipal election Reeve Morton said he had received many complaints from North Cowichan residents who told him they had been asked by telephone canvassers to vote for certain candidates.

ILLEGAL CALLS

He said, according to the Municipal Act this practice is illegal. He said he had been phoned as well. He added, "Either the law is obeyed or changed."

Future municipal candidates will be warned about the regulations imposed by the Municipal Act.

UTILITIES

Petitions from residents in the James Street area and taxpayers in the Sherman Road and Mary, Phillip and George Streets district who request cessation from North Cowichan will be tabled until more information is available.

Reeve Morton said at a meeting between the city and North Cowichan Tuesday, the city wanted to advise municipal council on the city's expandability of utilities into outside areas.

The reeve said the petitions at this moment will be regarded as a request for information.

In other business council:

● Strongly supported the Cowichan Indians' request to have the Expo '67 Indian pavilion moved to the Cowichan area after the Montreal exhibition closes in the fall of 1967.

● Learned from Coun. Cannon that a mutual aid program is being worked out between fire chiefs in an area which is located between Ladysmith and Cowichan Bay, and decided to establish how many new fire hydrants will be needed along the new water line in the municipality's southern water area.

Harvey laces up his birling shoes

Birling King Believes You Gotta Win

By MARIE CADORETTE

LAKE COWICHAN — A hobby that started at the age of five will probably take a 21-year-old Lake Cowichan man to Expo '67.

Harvey Livingstone is the winner of many trophies in log birling contests, including at the PNE this year.

Now his ambition is to make it to Expo.

His father, Gilbert Livingstone, has also had a long career of log birling, and it was he who got his son interested. Log birling requires many hours of practice.

When loggers would finish a day in the bush, many would relax by having a go at rolling logs in the water.

This is what Harvey's father did, right in his own back yard. He always encouraged his own sons to do the same.

Well... not always.

"When I was five my dad used to give me spankings whenever I got onto the logs," said the younger member. "I didn't know nothing then."

But he learned. At 12 he dumped his dad at Port Alberni. Log birling is not a skill easily acquired. "We've got to keep in shape," said Harvey. About an hour and a half daily practice on the back yard boom is a must.

And he runs at least a mile a day, rain or sun, throwing in a few push-ups and skip-rope for good measure.

The longest time Harvey has spent on a log is a half-hour.

Part of succeeding at log birling is having the will to win. "My dad used to tell me 'What's the use of getting on a log if you don't win,'" said Harvey. "It's like running a 100-yard race at the Olympics. You gotta win."

Crowds rarely bother Harvey. "It only bothered me at the PNE for about a week," he said.

"There was a good 20,000 people there."

His wife Charlene doesn't mind the crowds.

"When we walk through the crowd they recognize him," said Mrs. Livingstone. "It's really nice."

If Harvey goes to Expo '67 it will be for a six-month term, three shows a day.

He hopes to include his wife and maybe his 10-month daughter in the trip.

They all have their fingers crossed.

Alberni Accepts Plan For Repair of Hall

ALBERNI — City Council has agreed to a recommendation from the inter-municipal committee that it accept one of three plans suggested for the improvement of the recently purchased drill hall.

If Port Alberni council does likewise, the Twin Cities will have a 17,000 square-foot building useful year-round for a variety of recreational and community purposes.

Recently, the parks and recreation commission, which has been asked to administer the drill hall, was asked by city council to prepare estimates of work required.

In a report to the inter-municipal committee, the parks and recreation commission listed improvements in order of priority and three plans for accomplishing them.

The commission termed the purchase a sound investment, which can serve a wide variety of community needs without overlapping current facilities.

Campbell River Booming

CAMPBELL RIVER — This booming north island centre has just notched another mark; the district municipality issued more than $4,000,000 in building permits this year.

Last year's record was considered outstanding, just over $3,000,000 worth of construction.

Subdivisions are opening new tracts of land in south Campbell River. Almost as soon as houses are completed, they are occupied.

But something of the rural past lingers in the urban present. Council has heard complaints that many stray horses are creating a hazard at Campbell River airport.

The flying club said the horses endanger planes.

Lake Cowichan Demands Pay Parity

DUNCAN — The IWA has demanded wage parity between school employees in Lake Cowichan and Cowichan school districts.

Local 1-80, bargaining for 22 employees, for the first time is negotiating directly with a representative of the B.C. School Trustees Association.

And it is the first time the IWA has bargained for the Lake Cowichan staff.

Union president Fernie Viala said "In view of the fact that we did not bargain in the past for all employees in Lake Cowichan school district, we are demanding parity with the Cowichan School District for jobs of a comparable nature."

Also bargaining for the union is secretary-treasurer Ed Linder.

Carl Anselm is representing the B.C. School Trustees Association, which helps the school boards.

Council Wants Flood Control

DUNCAN — An official has called for reactivating of a flood control committee that died because of lack of government aid.

In the wake of severe flooding in the Cowichan Valley, North Cowichan Coun. John Cannon said the Cowichan Koksilah Rivers Flood Control Committee should be set up again.

It died three years ago, when senior government officials failed to provide assistance.

Coun. Cannon said the federal and provincial governments "shied away" from flood control when they found out how much it would cost.

Recent flooding of the Cowichan and Koksilah Rivers hit areas on the Cowichan Indian reserve, covered roads and forced some families to leave their homes.

Cost of a large-scale flood control scheme was estimated at $450,000 three years ago.

It is assumed cost would be much higher today.

Grant Helps Remploy, Indians Build Centre

ALBERNI — Perhaps it's the Christmas spirit, but council members have decided on several generous gestures some of them in response to requests which have been pending for several months.

A grant of $250 will be contributed to the building fund of the Alberni Valley Handicapped Association, council decided.

The group recently purchased the old Elgin Tabernacle premises, and will move its Remploy operation into the new quarters in January.

"People like this who are willing and anxious to help themselves deserve our support," Major Bishop said.

They are to be complimented. It is quite remarkable that they have been able to establish a building fund to make this step into their own building possible."

Council also approved a grant of $250.00 to the Port Alberni Friendship Centre. Alderman Blair pointed out that the Indian people are taking an active part in the operation of the centre.

Despite initial difficulties, the centre has been able to continue operations on a growing scale.

Please Give Today

DUNCAN — Under the theme "Please... be sure, somebody gives blood for Christmas," organizers of today's Red Cross blood donor clinic hope the target of 400 pints will be reached.

Clinic chairman Mrs. David Peachey said the clinic at Duncan United Church hall will be held from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

She said there will be free baby sitting and tree parking available.

Police Fuss Coming Under New Mayor

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tom Campbell, a 33-year-old real estate developer with a flair for controversy, won the mayoralty of Canada's third largest city by a razor-thin margin Thursday.

Mr. Campbell, a fast-talking millionaire whom pollsters underestimated, defeated incumbent William Rathie by little more than 1,200 votes in Wednesday's civic election.

He polled 41,073 votes to Mayor Rathie's 39,843 in one of the closest election battles in the city's history.

Socialist candidate Jean Rands, the only other mayoralty candidate, drew 6,534 votes—also a big surprise to election experts, who estimated the 21-year-old magazine editor had little hope of reaching the 1,000 mark.

Mr. Campbell said he is "going to try to be one of Vancouver's better mayors."

FUSS COMING

Mr. Campbell also promised to stir up a fuss by releasing a confidential report prepared last year by lawyer George Murray on alleged criminal activities by some Vancouver police officers.

Mr. Rathie kept the lid on the report, claiming it dealt with purely internal matters and disclosures from it could damage police efficiency and morale.

Mr. Murray was called upon to make the investigation following the robbery of $1,200,000 in mutilated money found for Ottawa to be destroyed, the shooting deaths of Constable Leonard Hogue and his family and suspected bank robberies by some police officers.

"If I think there is anything in it the public should know, I will release it to the press," he said.

"If the police are clean, why wasn't the report released?"

TAKING CHANCE

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Mr. Campbell may be taking a chance if he tries to release the report.

There may be some legal implications involved, as well as the fact that the report was addressed only to the Vancouver police commission.

In the race for 10 aldermanic seats, the only surprise was the election of lawyer Harry Rabin, a far-left candidate who tried unsuccessfully five times previously. There were 29 candidates for the 10 seats.

THE ALDERMEN

Incumbent aldermen elected, in order of plurality, were Hugh Bird, Halford Wilson, Earle Adams, Ernie Broome, Reg Atherton and Tom Alsbury.

New aldermen winning seats, in order, were Mr. Rabin, Marianne Linell, Peter Graham and Edward Sweeney.

U.S. Navy Delay

New Anti-Sub Planes Pigeon-Holed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. defence department has ordered the navy to take a further look at its ambitious multi-billion-dollar program to supply new planes for its anti-submarine warfare fleet, sources said Thursday.

The step means that the navy's acquisition of a new anti-submarine warfare plane—first authorized in 1963—may be delayed until 1974.

Navy officials, leery of the growing Soviet submarine fleet, had hoped at one time to begin taking steps toward production next year. The mainstay of the present U.S. fleet is the Grumman S-2 initially delivered in 1952. (The RCN's version is the S-2F Tracker.)

The navy now has eight anti-submarine aircraft carriers, each equipped with about 20 S-23 and 16 helicopters. This group is faced with the job of keeping watch over the 380 submarines estimated to make up the Soviet Union's fleet.

That estimate was issued earlier this week by Jane's Fighting Ships, the accepted authority on the world's navies, in its report for 1966-67. Forty of its submarines are nuclear-powered, the authorities said.

About 30 to 40 Soviet submarines are believed to be equipped with nuclear missiles.

"We hoped next year we'd be able to go full steam ahead," one navy officer said. "We think we should have it as soon as possible."

Sympathy Strike

Teamster Boss Demands Return to Work

DETROIT (AP) — Striking teamsters, demonstrating against a U.S. Supreme Court decision that could send him to prison for eight years, were ordered Thursday by their international president, James R. Hoffa, to return to their jobs quickly.

"Don't take the law in your own hands or you are going to hurt me," Hoffa told some 1,200 cheering teamsters, summoned hastily to a "back-to-work" meeting. Hoffa flew to Detroit from Chicago to address the meeting.

A 24-hour wildcat walkout to protest the court's confirmation of Hoffa's 1964 jury tampering conviction developed spontaneously Wednesday night at a meeting of his home local, No. 299.

SPREAD QUICKLY
Effective at midnight Wednesday night, it quickly spread to other locals, comprising a total membership of some 70,000.

Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh had appealed by telephone and telegraph to Hoffa to intercede, saying a 24-hour tieup of trucking would cripple this metropolitan industrial area of 3,700,000 persons.

Many short-trip drivers of bakery, laundry, food chain and such vehicles reported on schedule, but some later left their routes for Hoffa's meeting.

LOADING DELAYED

Mostly long-distance drivers were affected. Dockmen, who also are teamsters union members, normally begin loading after midnight, and there was doubt many trucks would be ready to roll again before midnight Thursday night—or 24 hours after the strike began.

"You took this action out of the emotions of your hearts," Hoffa said. The action would be publicized by newspapers and television as "your defying the courts."

Hoffa

"I still have respect for the courts," he added, and later told a press conference: "Democracy ultimately will win out and the courts ultimately will recognize this as not a fair trial."

CAREER REVIEWED

The 53-year-old Hoffa spoke for an hour and 10 minutes, reviewing his 37-year career as a teamster. He started in Detroit when he was 16 and organized workers on a grocery dock into what eventually became local 299.

"In the name of Jimmy Hoffa return to work as quickly as possible," he said at the end. "Don't even take a vote. Just go back. Thanks and please return to work."

Hoffa said he planned to ask for a Supreme Court rehearing and hoped to delay his entering prison, if he must, until after completion of national contract bargaining which is scheduled to begin in Washington, D.C., Jan. 17.

Bugs Halt Breath Balloon

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

British Columbia will not be able to introduce its roadside drinking tests until early in 1967, Attorney-General Bonner said Thursday.

The government planned to introduce its program in Greater Victoria next week, in time for the Christmas holiday period.

But Mr. Bonner said he was disappointed with the results of tests conducted with a portable balloon device at the RCMP laboratory in Regina.

Manufacturers in the United States will be asked if they can improve the device to the point where it will register a simple "yes" or "no" reading to indicate whether the blood alcohol content is above .08 per cent.

Motor Vehicle Superintendent Ray Hadfield said Thursday the RCMP lab tests were "a little shocking, because we had been given to understand the accuracy was there."

When the system is perfected and put into operation, the government will proclaim legislation passed during the last session, which will allow policemen to suspend licenses of borderline drivers for 24 hours.

A driver stopped and challenged by a policeman would have the right to refuse the roadside test and take a voluntary breathalyzer test to prove his blood alcohol content is below the .08 per cent level.

The roadside device itself consists of a balloon and a vial of crystals which change color when alcohol is present. The policeman must judge the color change.

The machine now in use by police is much more precisely made, operates in a controlled environment and uses a photo-electric cell to compare the colors of the crystals, Mr. Hadfield said.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (LAT) — A memo warning the press against news releases or other information relating to governor-elect Ronald Reagan issued by "unauthorized persons" was distributed here Thursday.

"I'm not authorized to say," replied Beane.

Families Poised

DUNCAN DAM GOES

By MARIE CADORETTE

DUNCAN — A small dam burst and spilled the raging Cowichan River through residential area of Cowichan Indian Reserve Thursday night.

At midnight 30 members of three families were standing by to evacuate their homes in the Mission Road area.

The water was at the doorstep of each house, the residents, from aging grandmothers to babies, were prepared to move if floods invaded the homes.

"I think we will have to get out," said Abraham Joe, public works chairman of the Indian band.

WRONG WAY

Ever since the dam was built, and he was one of the crew that built it, Mr. Joe has maintained the structure was constructed in the wrong way, and it would burst before high water.

As his prediction came true Thursday night, Mr. Joe could take little pleasure in the vindication of his argument — he was preparing to move his own family from one of the three houses.

In all, 74 persons are directly in the path of rising waters, and may have to evacuate.

TRUCKS STAND BY

All night the Cowichan band truck and trucks provided by the Civil Defence stood by.

Also waiting to help were 24 teen-age volunteers from Teen Town, ready to help with the moving.

Evacuated families will have temporary shelter in the old agricultural hall, where stoves and other provisions are installed.

WASTE OF MONEY

One evacuated family is now in the armories.

"I knew damn well that dike would go," Mr. Joe said. "It was a waste of the government's money."

He was working on the dam Thursday when he saw a tree had sunk into the dam. At 4:30 p.m. he took another look, and "I knew it was going."

He went home to alert his family and other residents. At 6:30 he was back at the

"I watched it all the time. It was caving in, little by little. And then it broke."

He said: "I saw a whole tree go floating by. I knew it was going to cause a jam somewhere. The water came very fast."

The water got home before he did, and after wading across his yard, he found his steps under eight inches of water.

Anytime families want to come out of their homes, trucks will assist them.

Mr. Joe gave no reason for

Pride of Navy 'Pile of Junk'

OTTAWA (CP) — The pride of the navy — the aircraft carrier Bonaventure — was described as "a pile of junk" in the Commons Thursday.

Robert Priddle (NDP-Burnaby-Richmond) worked in the jibe in a question to Revenue Minister Benson. Mr. Benson had just said Canada couldn't afford a 40-per-cent pay increase for air traffic controllers.

"Can the Canadian people afford to pay out $11,000,000 on that pile of junk the Bonaventure?"

The question went unanswered.

The Bonaventure is currently undergoing an extensive overhaul and the defence department has had to increase its estimate of how much the work will cost. The figure now runs into millions of dollars.

'Cover-Up' Charged To Witness

VANCOUVER (CP) — The head of the royal commission inquiry into the bugging of a union convention here last month accused a union witness of "covering up" in his testimony to the commission Thursday.

Commissioner R. A. Sargent said he was unimpressed with the evidence of Murray Johnston of Nanaimo, one of four officials of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada called to give his recollection of conversations at the union's convention.

A private investigator testified earlier that he placed electronic listening devices in the union's hotel convention rooms. He said he was hired by Pat O'Neal, regional organizer for the rival International Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

Air Talks Showing Continued Progress

OTTAWA (CP) — Revenue Minister Benson reported continuing progress Thursday in talks aimed at settling a threatened air traffic controllers' strike without recourse to government intervention.

Mr. Benson, president of the treasury board, the cabinet committee dealing with the controllers, declined to give details but said talks would continue.

Government legislation to block the scheduled Tuesday strike already has been prepared and is to be introduced today.

A spokesman for the Canadian Air Traffic Controllers, vice-president Jim Conway of Winnipeg, promised earlier that there would be no attempt to defy the legislation. But the association will stick to its wage demands until the legislation is passed.

The government's strike-halting legislation would provide for pay increases for the controllers, but the amount has not been specified. Their salaries now range from $4,800 to $9,528.

Bonn Shuns A-Bomb

Pledge Breaks Jam

PARIS (CP) — West Germany's pledge that it will not seek nor desire the manufacture or control of the atom bomb on a national basis is considered by Canada to have broken the main log-jam barring completion of an East-West pact to ban the spread of nuclear weapons.

Willy Brandt, West Germany's new foreign minister, made the pledge before the 15-country NATO council Thursday. Later External Affairs Minister Paul Martin told a press conference he would be "very disappointed" if the pact is not completed when the 17-country United Nations conference in Geneva is reconvened in February.

Informants described Martin as feeling Brandt's statement was impressive and sincere, leading to the conviction that there should be no longer any fundamental obstacle to the conclusion of an agreement.

Soviet authorities had told Martin during his recent tour they would not be prepared to sign the agreement if they felt proliferation would develop in another form — a reference to Soviet fears that Germany aspires to become an atomic power.

Martin also was said to be impressed with the statement by French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, that France will adhere to the political side of NATO even after the review period of 1969. However, Couve made clear he did not believe there could be a united NATO political policy, a suggestion indicating there still will be many difficulties between NATO and the maverick member which has withdrawn from integrated military co-operation.

Prudential Losses Top $17,000,000

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — In a stormy session that brought frequent curses and even a cry for a lynching, creditors of Prudential Finance Corp. Ltd. had their first meeting Thursday and learned that their position snaps up as even worse than had been expected.

J. L. Biddell, president of Clarkson Co. Ltd., trustee for the company placed in bankruptcy Dec. 5, told creditors that losses now known stand at $17,000,000 — and more will come.

Warning that it will take many more weeks to sort out details, Mr. Biddell said losses will run between $19,000,000 and $20,300,000. When Prudential Finance was first reported in trouble a month ago, it showed a book value of $25,000,000.

The meeting, attended by about 800 of the 8,500 noteholders in Canada, heard expressions like "bloodsuckers," "good — for — nothing gangsters," "corrupters" and "four-fushers."

When one speaker — who identified himself only as Mr. Davis — called for a lynching, many applauded.

There were repeated demands that the federal or provincial governments — or both — bail out the creditors.

Resolutions were passed calling for the presence at the next creditors' meeting of Premier John Roberts and Attorney-General Arthur Wishart of Ontario and C. C. Carrothers, London, Ont., lawyer who was a Prudential Finance director and is a partner in the law firm to which Mr. Roberts belonged.

When a debate started on appointing trustees for the bankrupt company, a woman at the back of the orchestra seats in the Royal Alexandra Theatre where the meeting was held yelled:

"What the hell good are trustees?"

World's Best Friend Walt Disney Dead

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Walt Disney, the greatest showman since P. T. Barnum, died Thursday of acute circulatory failure. The 65-year-old entrepreneur left as his legacy to the world Disneyland, fabulous cartoon characters such as Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck, and universally acclaimed motion pictures. (See Pages 19 and 25.)

He died at mid-morning in St. Joseph Hospital in nearby Burbank, where his left lung was removed last Nov. 21 after doctors discovered a tumor which had caused abscesses. It was not disclosed whether the tumor was malignant. A cardiologist was at Disney's bedside when he succumbed.

The hospital in which Disney passed away is located across the street from the movie studio he founded.

Docks Inquiry Trio Named

OTTAWA (CP) — The promised federal inquiry into the West Coast ports tie-up will be conducted by Mr. Justice C. Rhodes Smith of the Manitoba Appeals Court, Labor Minister Nicholson announced Thursday.

The dispute centred on demands by foremen to form their own collective bargaining unit. The ports were tied up three weeks.

Mr. Justice Smith will be assisted by H. J. C. Terry, Vancouver, former president of Northland Navigation Co. and Joseph Morris, former IWA western district president and now executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress in Ottawa.

Mr. Nicholson also said the cabinet has issued a directive to guarantee all stevedores eight statutory holidays a year. Many stevedores miss out on the holidays and two weeks' vacations because they work for several employers, none of whom was legally responsible.
